Introduced by M. of A. WALCZYK -- read once and referred to the Committee on Higher Education

AN ACT to amend the education law, in relation to allowing eligible non-resident undergraduate students to pay separate tuition rates for attendance at the state university college of arts and sciences at Potsdam; and providing for the repeal of such provisions upon expiration thereof

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Paragraph h of subdivision 2 of section 355 of the education law is amended by adding a new subparagraph 4-b to read as follows:

(4-b) Commencing with the two thousand twenty-two--two thousand twenty-three academic year and ending in the two thousand twenty-six--two thousand twenty-seven academic year, the board of trustees of the state university may designate the state university college of arts and sciences at Potsdam for participation in a program allowing eligible non-resident undergraduate students that reside within two hundred miles of the institution to pay separate tuition rates for attendance at such institution. Such institution shall consider out-of-state competition, current or projected levels of high school graduates within the institution's recruitment region, and enrollment capacity and physical location of the institution, if such institution participates in the program. The board of trustees of the state university is further authorized to set such separate tuition rates, which shall not be set below an amount equal to one and one-half times the in-state tuition rate at the designated institution. Such separate tuition rates may be offered only to eligible non-resident students, the total of which shall not exceed ten percent of enrollment at the designated institution. The institution shall report annually to the board of trustees of the state university on the impact of this program.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately; and shall expire and be deemed repealed June 1, 2027.

EXPLANATION--Matter in italics (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [-] is old law to be omitted.
