ACTING PRESIDENT MAYER: Senator Gianaris to explain his vote.

SENATOR GIANARIS: Thank you, Madam President. I'm pleased we're passing this bill today.

In the category of bills that are outdated, unnecessary and potentially dangerous, our citizen's arrest law is at the top of the list. The idea that we would empower average New Yorkers to go out there and enforce the laws on their own, with potentially deadly force, we don't need to think too hard to imagine why that would create all sorts of problems.

And unfortunately, we don't need to look too far to see it in action. Just fairly recently in history, in the State of Georgia, Ahmaud Arbery was a young Black man who was just jogging through his neighborhood and was confronted by people who thought they were making a citizen's arrest of someone they believed had committed a crime.

The bias that occurs in those situations is fairly obvious for all to see. It is a provision that has been used with racist consequences. And unfortunately, Ahmaud Arbery was killed in that exchange.

I also want to credit Representative Carl Gilliard of Georgia, and I've been working with him on an effort to do this throughout the country. Georgia did in fact just make significant changes and repeals to their citizen's arrest law, and I'm pleased that we are taking the same step here in New York today.

This will increase the safety of New Yorkers, and I appreciate my colleagues' support.

Thank you.

ACTING PRESIDENT MAYER: Senator Gianaris to be recorded in the affirmative.

Announce the results.

(The Secretary called the roll.)

ACTING PRESIDENT MAYER: Senator May to explain her vote.

SENATOR MAY: Thank you, Madam President.

As chair of the Aging Committee, I am thrilled that we are advancing a whole package of bills to help seniors -- older New Yorkers. And when you chair a committee like this and you see so many of your colleagues step forward and produce really good legislation, and then the staff works to get it over the finish line and the leadership steps forward to really make sure that this happens, it makes our jobs really satisfying.

So we have a whole package of bills today that will help to reduce prescription drug prices for seniors, will help to create more affordable housing and help with utility bills for older New Yorkers. It will also help prevent elder abuse, which is an increasing widespread problem.

And for those seniors who are staying active longer -- and there are many, many older New Yorkers these days who want to continue working and be active in multiple ways -- we are providing pathways to employment, pathways to entrepreneurship, and literally pathways to recreation. So this package of bills I think does a lot for our seniors.

I wanted, while I'm standing here, just to mention one person in particular who's on my mind today because of this. Chuckie Holstein is a 95-year-old powerhouse in Syracuse who 20 years ago started something called the Citizens' Academy. And I was one of the first graduates. It was an effort to train citizens to understand how their local government works, who the decisionmakers were in business and nonprofits. And a lot of us have gone on to elective office since.

Chuckie Holstein announced her retirement yesterday at age 95. And I am just deeply grateful to her for all the work she has done, and I want to see many more older New Yorkers follow in her path and be able to stay active as long as she has.

So thank you, Madam President. I vote aye.

ACTING PRESIDENT MAYER: Senator Tedisco to explain his vote.

SENATOR TEDISCO: Thank you,

Madam President, to explain my vote.

I think we all realize at this point that the past year has been unbelievably difficult and challenging and a terrible year. We've lost loved ones, friends, family. Serious illnesses. Kids couldn't get into school. Businesses and jobs shut down.

But New Yorkers fought through it and got us to this point. And this bill relates to the fact that we're at a pretty good point here. I think we're on our way to vanquishing this virus. But we're not out of the woods yet.

But ironically, the clearest indication that we're heading towards out of the woods is that you're going to see a lot of people wanting to get into the woods. Because our parks are opening up, our campgrounds are opening up, our beautiful forestlands in the 49th Senatorial District and across this state are opening up. Our lakes, our waterways. You're going to see New Yorkers come out and get out there. They'll be hiking, they'll be boating, they'll be hunting, they'll be picnicking, they'll be swimming, they'll be doing all the wonderful things we love to do when everything is back to normal.

And the fact of the matter is it's not only the virus we have to protect everybody against right now. That with all the wonderful things they'll be doing, there's a group of individuals who are challenged in certain ways. They have allergies.

Now, they're going to be out in these beautiful areas, and for the most part they're going to be having a great time. But those bees, those spiders will be stinging, will be biting. And there will be some mistakes made with the food, because a lot have food allergies. And tremendously bad things can happen when they go into shock.

So we have a law in New York State which is a very important and good law for safety, and we have a number of individuals who can carry what's called EpiPens. Injections, injectors. We have law enforcement, we have firefighters, we have paramedics, we have EMTs, nurses, there's a long list. Unfortunately, for these wonderful areas we have in New York State for tourists, for New Yorkers, these recreational areas, forest rangers, EnCon police, park rangers, believe it or not, they're not on the list.

In my district, it's important for them to be on that list, to have the opportunity to carry those EpiPens to save people's lives. And this bill is going to save people's lives. It's going to allow them to carry EpiPens and, in an emergency, when these allergic reactions happen, it's who can get there the quickest to save their lives to pull them out of this shock.

And when you're talking about a sheriff or a chief of police or law enforcement who may be 50, 60 miles away, or a park ranger who is right there with a hunter, a hiker or a picnicker who has this allergic reaction, it's so important for them to be able to be there to save those lives.

Now, there's a lot of people to thank for this, but first and more importantly I want to thank the guy who wants me to call him RJ, Senator Robert Jackson over there. I want to make it clear that this bill probably never comes to the floor unless that Senator sponsors it, supports it, reaches out to his colleagues and probably my colleagues and even in the Assembly and helps fight to get this to the floor.

And he's got a personal experience he's going to talk to you about which is extremely important. He's got a young daughter, a pediatrician, Dr. Jackson-Owens, who's got a little child, 8 years old, who has allergies and who has had to use an EpiPen over the years.

And my proudest point is not only has he endorsed this bill, but his daughter has endorsed this bill. And that means a lot to me also. So thank you, Senator.

I want to thank Senator, Leader Stewart-Cousins for allowing this bill to the floor.

I want to thank my leader in the New York State Senate Minority, Senator Robert Ortt, who's doing a tremendous job, who directs our staff and all our helpers that work on our bills, that fight to get our bills through committees, that make our bills better. We have a tremendous staff. And I want to thank the Majority staff also, what they've done.

I in particular, after I thank the staff and Leader Ortt, want to thank Kristin Frank, our counsel to the Minority Leader, for her efforts to get this bill to the floor. And of course I want to thank my staff -- my staff director, Adam Kramer, and all my other staff members who have worked very hard to get this bill done and are always there for the constituents I represent.

So I'm proud to be the sponsor of this bill. I'm proud to serve with my friend Senator Robert Jackson, RJ.

And as I close, I want to wish everybody that's going to be out there, as we lead towards the commemoration on Memorial Day of those individuals who give us the opportunity to be the greatest nation in the world and have protected our freedom and liberty and given their last measure of effort to do that for us, and hope all those individuals commemorate, remember them, thank them, but also enjoy this weekend with their family as we work towards not only getting into the woods, but getting out of the woods with this virus that's before us.

So I thank you, Madam President, and I vote aye.

ACTING PRESIDENT MAYER: Senator Tedisco to be recorded in the affirmative.

Senator Jackson to explain his vote.

SENATOR JACKSON: Thank you, Madam President.

My colleagues, I rise to support this bill, Senate Bill 4375, by my colleague Senator Tedisco.

And in fact, let me tell you how I learned about this bill. We were in another hearing in which he raised the issue that he has a bill about EpiPens out in our communities, especially the forests and all throughout New York State. And I did not know that. Because as you know, Madam President, there are thousands of bills within the New York State Senate.

And I committed to him that I would sign on to this bill, because I know it impacts not only two members of my family, my grandson, one of my grandchildren, and for another one, my nephew, who are allergic to things and have used EpiPens and gone to the emergency room because, you know, their breathing basically started to close up.

And so I went and communicated with the leader. And obviously knowing that the Assembly has passed this, I thank the leader, our leader, Andrea Stewart-Cousins, and the staff involved, and my staff and everybody else for bringing this together in order so that park rangers, forest rangers and environmental conservation police officers will have the opportunity to possess and administer EpiPens when needed in order to save people, and some of them as far as from going to the hospital, being hospitalized, or even saving their life.

So I rise to say that relating to helping lives by enabling, as I said, forest rangers and police officers in order to do that -- but as the proud father of a doctor, for me it was an easy decision to become a cosponsor of this bill. As summer fast approaches, millions of New Yorkers will head outdoors, as my colleague indicated, to state parks and beaches and other places like that.

And I've said publicly that when I go out with my grandson, I carry his backpack and in that backpack is an EpiPen. Because one thing I know is you never know. You know, even though he may not be eating food, but he may run into something and put his hands on something and then put his fingers in his mouth, and all of a sudden he's having a reaction.

Let me just read to you what my daughter said -- my daughter Dr. Saadiya Jackson-Owens, who is a pediatrician and the mom of my grandson, who suffers from food allergies: "This bill that my dad, Robert Jackson, is supporting to allow park rangers, forest rangers and environmental police officers to carry and administer epi auto-injectors, aka EpiPens, is a no-brainer. Giving an epi shot reduces hospitalization, morbidity and mortality, and more importantly is time-sensitive. Having epi auto-injectors in the field will add to the safety and security that the park and forest rangers and environmental police officers provide."

Therefore, my daughter and I support this bill, and I invite all my colleagues to join in, in voting aye.

Thank you, Madam President.
