WHEREAS, After several decades of various industrial uses and a period of decline, Tri-Main Center has become the first large-scale rehabilitation of a vacant industrial complex, and has been at the forefront of the Buffalo resurgence; and

WHEREAS, Under the luminous leadership of President, Matt Wolfe, Tri-Main Center's tenants enjoy an environment which preserves the building's unique history and architecture while providing the opportunity to create a space fitting their specific business needs; its occupants represent over 80 entities, including architecture firms, artists, galleries, educational institutions, health care, human services, and manufacturers, representing a unique blend of creativity and entrepreneurship; and

WHEREAS, For 25 years, the continued presence of Buffalo Arts Studio as an anchor tenant has been a testament to the importance of the arts as a vibrant stimulus for broader economic development in Buffalo; and
