S. 456--A 2

(a) "protected class" shall mean any group of individuals that are protected against an unlawful discriminatory practice by an employer pursuant to section two hundred ninety-six of the executive law.

- (b) "compensation" shall include but not be limited to: all earnings of an employee for labor or services rendered, regardless of whether the amount of earnings is paid on an annual salary, hourly, biweekly or per diem basis; reimbursement for expenses; health, welfare and retirement benefits; and vacation pay, sick pay, separation or holiday pay, or any other form of remuneration.
- 3. (a) Where an employee believes he or she is being discriminated against in terms of compensation in violation of this section, such employee may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the equitable and monetary relief described in paragraph (b) of this subdivision.
- (b) (1) In any action in which a court or jury finds that an employer has engaged in acts in violation of this section, the court or jury shall award to any affected employee or employees monetary relief, including back pay in an amount equal to the difference between the employee's actual earnings and what the employee would have earned but for the employer's unlawful practices, including an appropriate increase in retirement benefits, and an additional amount in compensatory and punitive damages, as appropriate.
- (2) In any action in which a court or jury finds that an employer has engaged in acts in violation of this section, the court shall enjoin the employer from continuing to discriminate against affected employees and shall direct the employer to comply with the provisions of this article; and may order the employer to take such additional affirmative steps as are necessary to ensure an end to unlawful discrimination, including reinstatement to the same or a comparable position for employees in the unclassified service or employees classified as management/confidential or labor; reinstatement with back pay; or reclassification of affected workers.
- (3) In any action in which an affected employee or employees prevail in their claims against employers, the court may, in addition to any judgement awarded to the plaintiffs, allow a reasonable attorney's fee, reasonable expert witness fees, and other costs of the action to be paid by the employer.
- 38 (c) An action to recover the damages or equitable relief prescribed in 39 paragraph (b) of this subdivision may be maintained against any employer 40 in any court of competent jurisdiction by any one or more employees or 41 their representative for or on behalf of:
 - (1) the employees; or
 - (2) the employees and other employees similarly situated.
- 44 4. (a) It shall not be a violation of this section for an employer to
 45 pay different compensation to employees, where such payments are made
 46 pursuant to:
 - (1) a bona fide seniority or merit system;
 - (2) a bona fide system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production;
 - (3) a bona fide system based on geographic differentials; or
- (4) any other bona fide factor other than status within a protected class, such as education, training, or experience. Such factor: (A) shall not be based upon or derived from a differential in compensation based on status within a protected class; and (B) shall be job-related with respect to the position in question and shall be consistent with business necessity. Such exception under this paragraph shall not apply when the employee demonstrates (i) that an employer uses a particular employment practice that causes a disparate impact on the basis of status within a protected class, (ii) that an alternative employment practice exists that would serve the same purpose and not produce such differential, and (iii) that the employer has refused to adopt such alternative practice.

- 7 (b) For the purpose of paragraph (a) of this subdivision, "business 8 necessity" shall be defined as a factor that bears a manifest relation9 ship to the employment in question.
- 10 (c) Nothing set forth in this section shall be construed to impede, 11 infringe or diminish the rights and benefits which accrue to employees 12 through collective bargaining agreements, or otherwise diminish the 13 integrity of the existing collective bargaining relationship.
- 14 § 2. This act shall take effect immediately.
