IN SENATE

February 2, 2010

Introduced by Sens. HANNON, DeFRANCISCO, LITTLE, MORAHAN, VOLKER -- read twice and ordered printed, and when printed to be committed to the Committee on Health

AN ACT to amend the public health law, in relation to HIV related testing

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Legislative findings. Public health authorities, including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), stress the importance of greatly increasing the number of people who receive testing for infection with HIV. The CDC stresses the offering of testing to patients without regard to perceived risk. HIV testing helps infected patients by enabling them to enter health care earlier to monitor their HIV disease and initiate treatment when appropriate. HIV testing provides a unique, important opportunity to discuss behaviors that prevent transmitting the virus to others.

Yet many health care professionals miss opportunities to offer an HIV test to their patients for a variety of reasons. Many may be reluctant bring up what they anticipate will be a difficult topic. They may assume that their patients are not at risk for HIV infection. worry that patients will interpret the offer of an HIV test to mean that the practitioner is making negative assumptions about the patient. At the same time, many patients may not perceive themselves to be at for HIV and so may not initiate testing discussions themselves. quently, many patients are highly unlikely to request HIV testing if it not offered by their provider. Requiring the offer of testing to all patients without regard to perceived individual risk will help simplify, destigmatize, and universalize the offer of HIV testing, and therefore increase the likelihood that individuals will be tested and therefore learn their HIV status. Because the most important reason for expanding HIV testing is bringing HIV infected individuals into care as early as possible, a positive test result must lead to counseling, services, and care.

EXPLANATION--Matter in ITALICS (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [] is old law to be omitted.

This legislation will also simplify and streamline the process of obtaining written informed consent to HIV related testing and the providing of pre- and post-test counseling and information.

Nothing contained in this legislation shall be construed as authorizing any individual to require any person to have an HIV related test or treatment for HIV/AIDS.

Therefore, this legislation will help protect the health of individual patients while supporting health care providers in their efforts to improve the public's health. This legislation is consistent with and a logical extension of New York's laws on HIV testing consent and confidentiality.

It is important that the offering of testing and arranging for, referring for, and providing of follow-up services be culturally and linguistically appropriate.
