AN ACT to amend the education law, in relation to permitting the parents of students attending a persistently lowest-achieving school to choose an education intervention model; and providing for the repeal of such provisions upon expiration thereof

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

1 Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature hereby finds that the 2 current state of our education system in New York state is not providing 3 all its students with access to the best possible education, thus inhib-
4 iting their ability to become fully participating members of society.
5 New York state was recently ranked 35th in the country in their progress 6 on the National Assessment of Educational Progress, otherwise referred 7 to as the Nation's Report Card, a national test instituted every other 8 year to students in every state. The gaps in achievement between 9 students based on race and geographic location are staggering and unac-10 ceptable. In 2011, White students in New York state were almost twice as 11 likely as their African-American and Hispanic counterparts to meet basic 12 standards in reading and writing. According to the state education
13 department, in 2011 only 47% of public high school students in the city
14 of Buffalo and the city of Rochester graduated, a reduction from a 53%
15 graduation rate in 2009.

16 Although there have been steps taken on the state level to correct and 17 reverse these alarming trends and gaps in achievement, the speed with

1 which they are implemented is insufficient, and the varying needs of 2 districts cannot be met by one universal approach. The legislature
3 believes that to ensure the successful rehabilitation of our lowest 4 performing schools, we must engage and encourage the involvement of the 5 parents in the process. Allowing parents to assert control over how 6 persistently lowest achieving schools are revitalized will instill a 7 sense of ownership over the approach implemented, and help ensure their 8 continued involvement in the process. When considering how to best 9 address their individual situation, parents will have to become organ-
10 ized and informed about the different challenges the school faces.
11 Parental involvement is the only aspect of education reform that the 12 state and the local educational authorities have little to no control 13 over, yet it is a requirement for many programs and grants designed to 14 assist in these much needed reforms.

15 Therefore, this legislation will provide a pilot program that allows 16 parents, in a portion the state identified as having persistently lowest 17 achieving schools, to collectively come together and provide direction 18 on how to correct and ensure the adequate education of their children.

19 S 2. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the 20 "parent empowerment pilot program".

21 S 3. The education law is amended by adding a new section 3613 to read
