S 3. Paragraph (a) of subdivision 3 of section 413 of the personal property law, as amended by chapter 1 of the laws of 1994 and as further amended by section 104 of part A of chapter 62 of the laws of 2011, is amended to read as follows:

(a) A seller may, in a retail [instalment] INSTALLMENT credit agreement, contract for and, if so contracted for, the seller or holder thereof may charge, receive and collect the service charge authorized by this article, which service charge shall not exceed the rate or rates agreed upon by the seller and the buyer, including, in accordance with the provisions of the credit agreement, rates that may vary, from time to time computed, for the purposes of this section, on the outstanding indebtedness from month to month, or if the service charge so computed is less than seventy cents for any month, seventy cents. If the credit agreement provides for a variable rate of service charge, such rate shall be determined at regular intervals as set forth in the credit agreement and in accordance with such regulations as the superintendent of financial services shall prescribe but said rate shall not vary more often than once in any three month period and shall be based on a published index that is (a) readily available, (b) independently verifiable, (c) beyond the control of the seller and (d) approved by the superintendent, (e) such charges in credit agreements shall be based on the index values, or the index numbers plus or minus additional percentage points provided, however, that variations in the charge must correspond directly to the movements of the index values plus or minus additional percentage points only. Once such charge is established no lending institution may add any factors to increase the charge other than variations in the established index without the prior approval of the superintendent of financial services.

The superintendent of financial services shall adopt regulations with respect to credit agreements that provide for a variable rate of service charge, including but not limited to: (a) providing for disclosure to the buyer by the seller of the circumstances under which the rate may increase, any limitations on the increase, the effect of an increase and an example of the payment terms that would result from an increase; (b) providing for disclosure to the buyer by the seller of a history of the fluctuations of the index over a reasonable period of time; and (c) providing for notice to the buyer by the seller prior to any rate increase or change in the terms of payment. The regulations shall allow a seller, holder or financing agency after choosing an approved index to choose a spread and a minimum and maximum rate of service charge at its discretion. A retail [instalment] INSTALLMENT credit agreement, whether it provides for a fixed or variable service charge, may provide for an introductory rate of service charge at either a fixed or variable rate, provided that the terms of such introductory rate, including, if applicable, the date on which the introductory rate shall terminate, are disclosed to the buyer. Such disclosure shall be contained on an application form [or pre-approved written solicitation] as specified pursuant

1 to subdivisions one and one-a of section five hundred twenty of the 2 general business law. A change in the service charge rate upon expira-3 tion of an introductory rate shall not be considered a variable rate or 4 a change in terms. The service charge rate in effect after expiration of 5 an introductory rate may apply to all amounts due under the credit 6 agreement regardless of when incurred, and disclosure of the same shall 7 be provided to the buyer in the written agreement.
8 S 4. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after 9 it shall have become a law.
