6 that upon the retiree's death all or a portion of such allowance shall 7 be continued for the life of and paid to a beneficiary duly nominated by 8 the retiree at retirement, shall be permitted to rescind such election
9 due to the conviction of said beneficiary on August 26, 2015 of burglary

District on July 1, 2003 and who elected a benefit payment option providing for the payment of a lesser retirement allowance over the life of the retiree with the provision that upon the retiree's death a portion of such retirement allowance would be paid to a beneficiary, to rescind such election due to the conviction of said beneficiary on August 26, 2015 of crimes committed against such retiree. In order to rescind such election, the retiree must file a written consent to make such change on a form prescribed by NYSTRS within one year of the effective date of this act. Upon satisfactorily receiving such form and any documentation requested by NYSTRS, any and all obligations of NYSTRS to the beneficiary under the retiree's benefit payment option shall be totally discharged and the retiree shall thereafter receive the maximum single life benefit for the remainder of such retiree's life, retroactive to August 27, 2015.

It is estimated there would be no additional annual cost for this benefit. Allowing retired members to change the terms of their option after retirement creates the potential for anti-selection however.
