- 11 § 260.15 Endangering the welfare of a child; defense.

In any prosecution for endangering the welfare of a child in the first second degree, pursuant to section 260.09 or 260.10 of this article, based upon an alleged failure or refusal to provide proper medical care treatment to an ill child, it is an affirmative defense that the defendant (a) is a parent, guardian or other person legally charged with the care or custody of such child; and (b) is a member or adherent of an organized church or religious group the tenets of which prescribe prayer as the principal treatment for illness; and (c) treated or caused such ill child to be treated in accordance with such tenets.

- 10. Paragraph (c) of subdivision 2 of section 422 of the social services law, as added by chapter 717 of the laws of 1986, is amended to read as follows:
- (c) Whenever a telephone call to the statewide central register described in this section is received by the [department] office of children and family services, and [the department] such office finds that the person allegedly responsible for abuse or maltreatment of a child cannot be a subject of a report as defined in subdivision four of 28 section four hundred twelve of this [chapter] title, but believes that 30 the alleged acts or circumstances against a child described in the tele-31 phone call may constitute a crime or an immediate threat to the child's health or safety, [the department] such office shall: (1) convey by the 32 33 most expedient means available the information contained in such tele-34 phone call to the appropriate law enforcement agency, district attorney other public official empowered to provide necessary aid or assistance and, (2) include such individuals in the statewide central register in accordance with the requirements of subdivision three of this section, and make such information accessible pursuant to section four hundred twenty-four-a of this title. The commissioner of the office of 40 children and family services shall promulgate any additional rules and 41 regulations he or she deems necessary in furtherance of this paragraph.
 - § 11. Section 208 of the civil practice law and rules, as amended by chapter 485 of the laws of 1986, is amended to read as follows:
- § 208. Infancy, insanity. If a person entitled to commence an action is under a disability because of infancy or insanity at the time the cause of action accrues, and the time otherwise limited for commencing the action is three years or more and expires no later than three years after the disability ceases, or the person under the disability dies, the time within which the action must be commenced shall be extended to three years after the disability ceases or the person under the disability dies, whichever event first occurs unless such action is for sexual assault upon a child under any section of article one hundred thirty of the penal law, then such action may be commenced up to six years after 54 the disability ceases or the person under the disability dies, whichever event first occurs; if the time otherwise limited is less than three years, the time shall be extended by the period of disability. The time

This section shall not apply to an action to recover a penalty or forfeiture, or against a sheriff or other officer for an escape.

§ 12. The civil practice law and rules is amended by adding a new section 213-d to read as follows:

§ 213-d. Actions for sexual assault or abuse of an infant. standing any provision of law to the contrary, any cause of action of physical or psychological injury sustained by a person under eighteen years of age as a result of a sexual assault or abuse, which is barred because the statute of limitations has expired, is revived, and an action thereon may be commenced within three years of the effective date of this section. For the purposes of this section, sexual assault or abuse shall be a sex offense as defined under article one hundred thirty of the penal law or a predecessor statute at the time of the assault or abuse. Any such cause of action previously dismissed because of the statute of limitations may be brought under this section notwithstanding such dismissal. The provisions of this section shall be applicable to any civil action governed by the statute of limitations of another jurisdiction. Any cause of action for damages arising under this section shall not include, as part of the resolution, a confidentiality clause or agreement as a matter of public policy.

- § 13. Paragraph (a) of subdivision 4 of section 30.10 of the criminal procedure law is amended to read as follows:
- (a) Any period following the commission of the offense during which (i) the defendant was continuously outside this state or (ii) the whereabouts of the defendant were continuously unknown and continuously unascertainable by the exercise of reasonable diligence. However, in no event shall the period of limitation be extended by more than five years beyond the period otherwise applicable under subdivision two, except that an action for an offense listed in article one hundred thirty of the penal law which is committed against a child less than eighteen years of age may be commenced at any time.
- § 14. This act shall take effect on the sixtieth day after it shall have become a law; provided, however, that section 213-d of the civil practice law and rules, as added by section twelve of this act, shall expire and be deemed repealed three years after the effective date of this act.
