(a) the criminal charges to be presented against the defendant;

(b) the defendant's ties to the community;

(c) the defendant's place of residence and the length of residence at such place;

(d) the defendant's commitments to and contact with his or her friends and family;

(e) the defendant's employment history and sources of income;

(f) the defendant's ability to verify any information he or she provides to the agent;

(g) the defendant's past history of appearing and failing to appear at proceedings as required by a court;

(h) the defendant's character, reputation, habits and mental condition;

(i) any pending criminal charges against the defendant; and

(j) such other information as the pretrial services agent shall deem necessary to evaluate the defendant.

3. After interviewing a defendant in a criminal action, a pretrial services agent shall review the information provided in the interview with the defendant pursuant to subdivision two of this section, seek to verify such information and evaluate the suitability of the defendant for release on his or her own recognizance.

4. After interviewing and evaluating a defendant in a criminal action, the pretrial services agent shall submit a recommendation to the appropriate criminal court for the terms of the securing order for such defendant. Each such agent shall recommend that the defendant be:

(a) released on his or her own recognizance;

(c) committed to the custody of the sheriff.

5. All information collected and evaluations derived pursuant to this article, except the recommendation provided to the court pursuant to subdivision four of this section, shall be confidential and shall not be disclosed by the pretrial services agent or any of his or her employees.

§ 3. Section 510.10 of the criminal procedure law, as amended by chapter 459 of the laws of 1984, is amended to read as follows:

§ 510.10 Securing order; when required.

When a principal, whose future court attendance at a criminal action or proceeding is or may be required, initially comes under the control of a court, such court must, after submission and its review of the recommendations of the pretrial services agent, by a securing order, either release him or her on his or her own recognizance, [~~fix—bail~~] release him or her subject to such conditions as shall be established by the court or commit him or her to the custody of the sheriff. When a securing order is revoked or otherwise terminated in the course of an uncompleted action or proceeding but the principal's future court attendance still is or may be required and he or she is still under the control of a court, a new securing order must be issued. When the court revokes or otherwise terminates a securing order which committed the principal to the custody of the sheriff, the court shall give written notification to the sheriff of such revocation or termination of the securing order.

§ 4. The criminal procedure law is amended by adding a new section 530.05 to read as follows:

1 § 530.05 Securing orders; in general.

2 1. Notwithstanding any provision of this title to the contrary, a
3 court may only secure attendance at future proceedings of a defendant in 4 a criminal proceeding by:

5 (a) releasing the defendant on his or her own recognizance;

6 (b) releasing the defendant subject to conditions established by the 7 court. Such conditions may include, but shall not be limited to:

8 (i) requiring the defendant to continue to reside at his or her
9 current residence, and, if he or she is required to move, provide the 10 court with his or her new address;

11 (ii) requiring the defendant to maintain attendance at an education
12 institution, if he or she is currently attending such institution;

13 (iii) requiring the defendant to maintain attendance at his or her
14 place of employment, if employed;

15 (iv) requiring the defendant to comply with all orders of protection
16 and temporary orders of protection issued against him or her;

17 (v) prohibiting the defendant from traveling, including the surrender
18 of his or her passport, when such prohibition will not affect the 19 defendant's ability to remain employed;

20 (vi) requiring the defendant to comply with a curfew which does not
21 impair such defendant's employment or family responsibilities;

22 (vii) requiring the defendant to stay away from such location or 23 locations as the court shall designate;

24 (viii) requiring the defendant to periodically appear at or to tele-
25 phonically contract a law enforcement agency to verify his or her pres-
26 ence in the community. In ordering such condition the court shall 27 consider whether the defendant owns a telephone or wireless communi-
28 cations device, and shall ensure that such condition does not unduly
29 place a burden on the defendant's employment, education and family
30 responsibilities; and

31 (ix) establishing such conditions as the court shall deem to be neces-
32 sary; or

33 (c) committing the defendant to the custody of the sheriff.

34 2. Every court in the issuance of a securing order shall grant a pref-
35 erence to release on his or her own recognizance when the most severe
36 charge against the defendant is a violation or a misdemeanor.

37 3. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the attend-
38 ance of a defendant shall not be secured by means of bail. Furthermore,
39 every court, in the issuance of a securing order, shall utilize the 40 least restrictive means necessary to secure the defendant's attendance
41 at future proceedings, including the least restrictive conditions when 42 release subject to conditions is permitted.

43 4. In every case in which a court issues a securing order either
44 releasing the defendant on his or her own recognizance or releasing the 45 defendant subject to conditions, the court shall cause the defendant to 46 be notified of each subsequent court proceeding at which such defend-
47 ant's attendance is required, not more than fourteen days nor less than 48 five days before each such proceeding. Notice to the defendant shall be 49 provided by means of a postcard mailed first class mail, or, if the 50 defendant has provided the court with a telephone number, by a telephone 51 call or text message, or has provided an electronic mail address, by an
52 electronic mail message. Each notice provided pursuant to this subdivi-
53 sion shall include the time, date and location of the required court
54 appearance, and the potential penalties for the failure of the defendant
55 to appear.

1 5. In each instance in which a court issues a securing order which (a)
2 does comply with the recommendation of the pretrial services agent,
3 submitted pursuant to subdivision four of section 505.15 of this title;
4 or (b) releases the defendant subject to conditions or commits the
5 defendant to the custody of the sheriff when the most severe charge
6 against the defendant is a violation or a misdemeanor, the court shall 7 on the record at the time of issuing such securing order, state the
8 reason or reasons for ordering such means to secure the defendant's
9 future court appearances.

10 § 5. This act shall take effect on the first of January next succeed-
11 ing the date on which it shall have become a law; provided, however,
12 that effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any 13 rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its 14 effective date is authorized and directed to be made and completed on or 15 before such effective date.
