7 this state, but shall not include a private banker, a safe deposit

10 section 260.31 of the penal law.

11 (iii) "financial exploitation" means (A) a series of improper takings, 12 withholdings, appropriations, or uses of a vulnerable adult's money,

1 vulnerable elderly person has occurred or may occur again, the banking 2 institution may, but shall not be required to, refuse or delay any 3 single transaction requiring the disbursement of moneys from the account 4 of:

5 (i) a vulnerable elderly person; or

6 (ii) which a vulnerable elderly person is a beneficiary.

7 (c) A banking institution may also refuse to disburse or delay moneys
8 pursuant to this subdivision if a social services official, or law
9 enforcement agency provides information to such institution demonstrat-
10 ing that it is reasonable to believe that financial exploitation of a 11 vulnerable elderly person has occurred or may occur again.

12 (d) A banking institution shall not be required to refuse to disburse 13 or delay funds pursuant to this section. Such a refusal or delay shall 14 be in the banking institution's discretion, based on the information 15 available to such institution.

16 (e) Any banking institution that refuses to disburse moneys or delays 17 the disbursement of moneys pursuant to this subdivision shall:

18 (i) make a reasonable effort to provide notice, orally or in writing, 19 to all parties authorized to transact business on the account from which 20 a disbursement was refused and/or delayed within five business days of 21 such refusal or delay; and

22 (ii) immediately, but no later than one business day after a refusal 23 or delay was placed on a transaction, report the incident to the social 24 services official responsible for administering adult protective 25 services or enhanced multi-disciplinary teams pursuant to this article
26 for the affected vulnerable adult. Such report shall include the reason 27 for refusing and/or delaying a transaction and the banking institution's 28 basis for refusing and/or delaying a single transaction. Such report 29 shall also contain any facts that the bank deems relevant to establish-30 ing that financial exploitation of a vulnerable elderly person may have 31 occurred, may have been attempted, or is being attempted; and

32 (iii) at the request of the social services official responsible for 33 administering adult protective services pursuant to this article for the 34 affected vulnerable elderly person or a law enforcement agency, provide 35 all information and documents that relate to the transaction refusal or 36 delay within three business days of the request for information or 37 documentation.

38 (f) The delay of or refusal to disburse moneys pursuant to this subdivi-39 vision shall terminate upon the earlier of:

40 (i) the time at which the banking institution is satisfied that the 41 disbursement will not result in the financial exploitation of a vulner-
42 able elderly person;

43 (ii) the issuance of an order by a court of competent jurisdiction, 44 directing the disbursement of the moneys; or

45 (iii) ten business days after the day on which the transaction refusal 46 or delay is applied by the banking institution.

47 (g) Notwithstanding any other provisions found in this article, the 48 banking institution shall make funds available that were previously held 49 or delayed because of suspicion of financial exploitation of a vulner-
50 able elderly person, if such funds are necessary to meet ongoing obli-
51 gations such as, but not limited to, housing, medical care, or other 52 emergency expenses as determined by a social services official or law
53 enforcement official. Transactions related to the maintenance of a 54 household such as rent, mortgage payments, utilities, and medical 55 expenses shall not be delayed or refused by a banking institution.

1 (h) If a banking institution does engage in the practice of delaying
2 or refusing transactions based on the financial exploitation of a
3 vulnerable elderly person, such banking institution must designate one 4 or more qualified individuals with the authority to refuse or delay such 5 transactions. Such designee shall make a record of such action in 6 compliance with subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (e) of this subdivision.

7 (i) A banking institution or an employee of such an institution shall 8 be immune from criminal, civil or administrative liability for delaying 9 the disbursement of moneys, refusing to disburse moneys, or disbursing 10 moneys pursuant to this subdivision, and for actions taken in further-11 ance of that determination, including the making of a report or the 12 providing of access to or copies of relevant records to a social 13 services official or law enforcement agency, if such determinations and 14 actions were made in good faith and in accordance with the provisions of 15 this subdivision.

16 § 2. Section 4 of the banking law is amended by adding a new subdivi-
17 sion 4 to read as follows:

18 4. A banking institution or an employee of such an institution shall 19 be immune from criminal, civil or administrative liability for refusing 20 to disburse moneys or disbursing moneys pursuant to subdivision nine of 21 section four hundred seventy-three of the social services law, and for 22 actions taken in furtherance of a determination made pursuant to such 23 section, including making a report or providing access to or copies of
