5 develop the program in cooperation with an advisory board consisting of 6 the presidents of: SUNY Morrisville; SUNY Canton; SUNY Cobleskill; SUNY
7 Oswego, and the dean of the college of agriculture and life sciences at 8 Cornell University. Though the resources of each institution shall be

1 § 4. (a) Prospective participants shall submit an application, at a 2 time and in a manner determined by the participating institutions. The 3 application shall include a combination of media, and at minimum must 4 describe: a business plan; marketing goals; the product intended to be 5 sold, and demonstrate that the prospective participant has the necessary 6 attributes to succeed in the program. Prospective participants may also 7 be required to submit other supplementary documentation as is deemed 8 necessary by the participating institutions.

9 (b) Successful applicants shall be required to pay a fee covering
10 room, board, and materials. This fee shall not exceed $500 per week, 11 payable to any participating institution that hosts all or a part of 12 that year's administration of the program.

13 § 5. The program will be held on the campus of either SUNY Morris-
14 ville, SUNY Canton, SUNY Cobleskill, or SUNY Oswego, or any combination
15 thereof as determined by the participating institutions. The location 16 may change from one year to another.

17 § 6. The program shall teach participants how to: develop their chosen 18 product; how to identify prospective consumers; how to market their

20 consumers. The program may also include any other topics or cognates 21 that the participating institutions deem necessary and proper.

22 § 7. (a) No more than one week after the end of each administration of 23 the program, participating institutions shall review presentations
24 prepared by each participant. Presentations shall feature such materials 25 as the participating institutions may deem appropriate to demonstrate 26 understanding of the program content, and the further development of the 27 business plan and marketing goals contained in the participant's appli-28 cation.

29 (b) Of each cohort, not more than one-third of the participants shall,
30 based on the presentations described in subdivision (a) of this section, 31 be selected for a grant of funds. Each individual grant shall not exceed 32 $10,000.

33 (c) Each grant shall be issued by the empire state development corpo-

36 (d) Each awardee shall be required to submit periodic reports to the 37 department of agriculture and markets and the office of the state comp-38 troller. These reports will allow the monitoring of grant funds, and 39 should also serve to develop best-practices models that will be shared 40 with future participants in the program, as well as the students and 41 faculty of participating institutions.

42 § 8. The commissioner of agriculture and markets is instructed to 43 ensure that the program admits only owners of small to medium sized 44 farms based on the United States department of agriculture's 2012 agri-45 culture census of New York state, who seek to target non-traditional or 46 non-commodity markets. Applicants must be domiciled in New York state 47 and have a principal place of business in this state.

48 § 9. The commissioner of agriculture and markets shall be authorized 49 to provide funds for this program only to the extent that an appropri-

52 agriculture and markets shall induct the first cohort into the program
53 within one year of the effective date of this act.
