The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The environmental conservation law is amended by adding a new section 3-0308 to read as follows:

§ 3-0308. Identification of high local environmental impact zones.

1. The commissioner shall publish a biennial list of "high local environmental impact zones", which shall identify those areas of the state which are most adversely affected by existing environmental hazards. Such list shall identify high local environmental impact zones in as specific detail as is practicable, and shall identify such zones by census tract, census block group or nine digit zip code to the extent possible, and shall at a minimum include zones existing in whole or in part in no fewer than five percent of the five-digit zip codes in the state. In compiling such list, the commissioner shall consider, at a minimum, each of the following factors, as well as any other factors that the commissioner deems relevant to a determination of the relative adverse environmental impact on local communities:

a. the quantities of toxic chemicals released within the area as reported in the Toxics Release Inventory compiled pursuant to the federal Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (42 U.S.C. §§ 11001 et seq.);

b. the quantities of emissions, discharges and stored waste authorized at facilities located in the area by permits issued pursuant to articles 17, 19, 27, 29 and 40 of this chapter;

10 of hazardous waste at those sites;

11 f. the number and quantity of discharges of petroleum as defined in 12 article 12 of the navigation law;

13 g. whether the area is adjacent to one or more other areas which are 14 found to be high local environmental impact zones, where the adverse
15 environmental impacts in such designated zones also have adverse impacts
16 on adjacent areas; and

17 h. whether the area is included in an area designated as nonattainment
18 for one or more pollutants pursuant to § 107 of the federal Clean Air

20 2. The commissioner shall publish the listing of high level environ-
