AN ACT to establish the residential real property tax relief for public education task force

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature finds that the 2 current primary and secondary education funding system, which is based largely upon real property taxation, is antiquated and creates serious 4 disparities in educational opportunity and inequities with regard to distribution of the system's financial burden. The quality of education 5 6 that children receive varies widely by geographic region, as does the 7 opportunity for children to participate in extracurricular activities. In addition, taxpayers throughout the state receive real property tax bills from their local school districts based on the value of their 9 10 homes, which is subject to multiple factors beyond their control, rather 11 their financial ability to pay, creating serious regional 12 distortions in the relative cost of living. The legislature finds that these distortions are greatly exacerbated by the recent enactment of the 14 federal tax cuts and jobs act of 2017, which will limit the deductibility of state and local taxes to 10,000 dollars beginning in the next 15 16 fiscal year, effectively eliminating one of the few mitigating factors 17 against high property taxes for homeowners in certain regions of the state, and creating undue hardship for families throughout the state. The legislature further finds that our children should not be penalized 19 based upon the geographic location of their home, nor should financial 20 support for the educational system fall more heavily on those who are 21 22 less able to bear the burden. The legislature therefore orders that a 23 task force be created to conduct a comprehensive examination of the 24 current funding system, and to make recommendations for a long-term, 25 statewide solution that will shift the base resource of primary and 26 secondary education funding from real property taxes to the state 27 personal income tax. Such new funding methodology must be flexible 28 enough to ensure efficient responsiveness to certain dynamic factors
