An employer must notify the issuer promptly when the debtor terminates employment and provide the debtor's last address and name and address of the new employer, if known. An income payor must notify the issuer promptly when the debtor no longer receives income and must provide the debtor's last address and the name and address of the debtor's new employer, if known. Where the income is compensation paid or payable to the debtor for personal services, the amount of the deductions to be withheld for support enforcement shall not exceed the following:

§ 10. Subdivision (g) of section 5241 of the civil practice law and rules is amended by adding a new paragraph 5 to read as follows:

(5) Where the income is compensation paid or payable to the debtor for personal services, the amount of the deductions to be withheld for restitution or reparation shall not exceed fifty percent of the earnings of the debtor remaining after the deduction therefrom of any amounts required by law to be withheld ("disposable earnings").

§ 11. The section heading and subdivisions (a) and (b) of section 5242 of the civil practice law and rules, as amended by chapter 170 of the laws of 1994, are amended to read as follows:

Income deduction order for support, restitution or reparation enforcement. (a) Upon application of a creditor, for good cause shown, and upon such terms as justice may require, the court may correct any defect, irregularity, error or omission in an income execution for support, restitution or reparation enforcement issued pursuant to section [~~5241~~] fifty-two hundred forty-one of this article.

(b) Upon application of a creditor, for good cause shown, the court may enter an income deduction order for support, restitution or reparation enforcement. In determining good cause, the court may take into consideration evidence of the degree of such debtor's past financial responsibility, credit references, credit history, and any other matter the court considers relevant in determining the likelihood of payment in accordance with the order of support, restitution or reparation. Proof of default establishes a prima facie case against the debtor, which can be overcome only by proof of the debtor's inability to make the payments. Unless the prima facie case is overcome, the court shall enter an income deduction order for support, restitution or reparation enforcement pursuant to this section.

§ 12. Subdivision (g) of section 5242 of the civil practice law and rules, as amended by chapter 270 of the laws of 2013, is amended to read as follows:

(g) An order pursuant to this section shall take priority over any other assignment, levy or process. If an employer or income payor is served with more than one income deduction order for restitution enforcement, reparation enforcement or support enforcement pertaining to a single employee pursuant to this section, or with an order issued pursuant to this section and also an execution pursuant to section [~~5241~~] fifty-two hundred forty-one of this article, and if the combined total amount of the income to be withheld exceeds the limits set forth in subdivision (f) of this section, the employer or income payor shall withhold the maximum amount permitted thereby and pay to each creditor that proportion thereof which such creditor's claim bears to the combined total.

§ 13. This act shall take effect on the one hundred twentieth day after it shall have become a law, except that any guidelines necessary for the timely implementation of this act on its effective date shall be established on or before such date.
