AN ACT to amend the general municipal law, in relation to prohibiting police officers from carrying or using a firearm during any phase of the officer's official duties unless the officer has satisfactorily completed a course of training that meets or exceeds the minimum standards established by the municipal police training council

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subdivision 1 of section 209-q of the general municipal law are relettered paragraphs (c) and (d) and a new paragraph (b) is added to read as follows:

(b) No employer shall allow any police officer it employs to carry or use a firearm during any phase of the officer's official duties, which constitutes on-duty employment, unless the officer has satisfactorily completed a course of training that meets or exceeds the minimum standards established by the municipal police training council in the use of deadly physical force and firearms, and annually receives instruction in the use of deadly physical force and firearms that meets or exceeds the minimum standards established by the municipal police training council. All employers of police officers shall conduct, or provide through another organization, such training required by this subdivision with sufficient frequency to ensure there is no impact on a police officer's on-duty employment due to lack of available training. A police officer shall not be transferred from his or her precinct, command, assignment, post, squad, or tour of duty as a result of such employer's failure to provide the training required under this subdivision. In addition, such employer's failure to provide the training required under this subdivision shall not impair a police officer's ability to carry a firearm while off-duty.

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the first of January next succeeding the date on which it shall have become a law.

EXPLANATION--Matter in italics (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [-] is old law to be omitted.
