from an elementary, a middle, and a high school of whom: one shall be certified in special education, and one shall have experience with and be certified to instruct students with limited English proficiency; one certified pre-school teacher; one member of the state university of New York administration, appointed by the chancellor of the state university; and five members appointed by the governor, at least one of whom has expertise in universal design for learning.

(b) The governor shall designate the chair of the task force.

(c) Members of the task force shall not receive any compensation but shall be reimbursed for their actual, necessary expenditures.

(d) Members of the task force shall serve at the pleasure of the person who appointed them. Any vacancy on the task force shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

(e) The state education department shall provide staff for the task force.

§ 3. All departments or agencies of the state or subdivisions thereof, and local governments shall, at the request of the chair, provide the task force such facilities, assistance, and data as will enable the task force to carry out its powers and duties.

§ 4. The task force may meet and hold public hearings within the regions of the state, and shall have all the powers of an executive body pursuant to the executive law.

§ 5. The task force shall:

(a) study the effectiveness of universal design for learning to:

(i) provide flexibility in the ways information is presented, students respond or demonstrate knowledge and skills, and students are engaged; and

(ii) reduce barriers in instruction and provide appropriate accommodations, supports, and challenges while maintaining high achievement expectations for all students, including students with disabilities and students with limited English proficiency;

(b) study the feasibility of:

(i) incorporating and applying the principles of universal design for learning into the elementary, secondary, and postsecondary and higher education systems in the state with respect to curriculum development; the evaluation, selection, and design of textbooks and other instructional materials; the purchase and use of technology for instructional purposes; teacher preparation and staff development; the development of classroom, district, and statewide assessments; and state grants; and

(ii) evaluating the effect of universal design for learning on student outcomes;

(c) make recommendations relating to how school districts and boards of cooperative educational services may incorporate the best practices and principles of universal design for learning through the development of local school system policies and procedures, including but not limited to local educational goals, teaching methods, instructional materials and assessments.

§ 6. The task force shall make a report of its findings to the governor, the temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly, within one year of the date of the task force's first meeting. Such report shall include recommendations for further action and legislation.

§ 7. This act shall take effect July 1, 2017 and shall expire and be deemed repealed two years after such date.
