The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1 Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. New York State is at a
2 very critical moment in its history. Many recent articles have cited
3 information provided by the United States Census Bureau that shows over 4 one million people have left the New York area since 2010, and this can 5 be attributed to the high cost of living forced on New York taxpayers
6 through high taxes and a lack of job opportunities. Our high taxes,
7 particularly our high property taxes, have contributed to New York
8 consistently being ranked near the bottom when compared to other states
9 for business tax climate and total combined tax burden. By doing little 10 to reform the structural reasons behind the high cost of living in New 11 York, the state government has failed to make life better for families 12 and businesses in every region.

13 To compound this problem, New York spends a high amount on public 14 assistance programs that are meant to help citizens escape poverty and 15 become self-sufficient, but include income thresholds that create what 16 are known as "benefit cliffs". These benefit cliffs occur when an indi-
17 vidual or family receiving public benefits hits a specified dollar
18 amount in income and immediately loses eligibility to receive a certain 19 public assistance benefit. When this happens, the state is creating a 20 situation where New Yorkers would actually see a reduction in real take-21 home pay because the value of the public assistance benefit they will 22 lose is worth more than the increased income they would receive through 23 working. This means that low-income New Yorkers, through no fault of 24 their own, will find it difficult to accept a job, more hours, or an 25 increase in pay as the financial well-being of their family is threat-
26 ened by working more. Work should be incentivized, and no New Yorker 27 should ever be faced with a situation where working hard and earning a 28 larger salary can actually lead to a decrease in real take-home pay.

29 These problems require state government officials to make hard choic-30 es, and make long-term structural changes in order to see real systemic 31 changes to our economy in the long run. Therefore, the legislature finds 32 it necessary to implement a ten-year state takeover of the local share
33 of Medicaid outside of New York City, create the Commission to Reform
34 Public Assistance Benefits to implement a new payment method to eradi-35 cate the benefit cliffs, expand the state earned income tax credit from 36 thirty percent to forty-five percent of the federal credit amount, offer
37 the option for individuals to receive the state earned income tax credit 38 in monthly installments, expand the child and dependent care tax credit, 39 allow those receiving unemployment insurance to work part-time while 40 still receiving a partial unemployment benefit, assume the growth in 41 property taxes for school districts and local governments that remain 42 under the real property tax cap to take the burden off of homeowners,
43 create a property tax redesign team that will produce recurring savings
44 and subject New York City to the real property tax cap. These struc-
45 tural changes will help make New York more competitive, and a more 46 attractive place to build a business and raise a family. They will also 47 provide low-income New Yorkers with additional opportunities to better 48 their situation and rise out of poverty.

49 § 2. This act enacts into law major components of legislation provid-
50 ing for a ten-year state takeover of the local share of Medicaid outside 51 of New York City, providing for a twenty-year state takeover of fifty 52 percent of the local share of Medicaid in New York City, creating the 53 Commission to Reform Public Assistance Benefits, expanding the state

1 earned income tax credit from thirty percent to forty-five percent of 2 the federal credit amount, offering the option for individuals to 3 receive the state earned income tax credit in monthly installments, 4 expanding the child and dependent care tax credit, allowing those 5 receiving unemployment insurance to work part-time while still receiving 6 a partial unemployment benefit, assuming the growth in property taxes
7 for school districts and local governments that remain under the real 8 property tax cap to take the burden off of homeowners, creating a prop-9 erty tax redesign team required to produce recurring savings and 10 subjecting New York City to the real property tax cap. Each component is 11 wholly contained within a Part identified as Parts A through J. The 12 effective date for each particular provision contained within such Part 13 is set forth in the last section of such Part. Any provision in any 14 section contained within a Part, including the effective date of the 15 Part, which makes reference to a section "of this act", when used in 16 connection with that particular component, shall be deemed to mean and 17 refer to the corresponding section of the Part in which it is found.
18 Section four of this act sets forth the general effective date of this 19 act.
