AN ACT to amend the public health law, in relation to impact studies on tick-borne diseases

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The public health law is amended by adding a new section 207-a to read as follows:

§ 207-a. Tick-borne diseases and blood-borne pathogen impact study.
1. The department, in conjunction with the commissioner of mental health, shall issue a report examining the mental health impacts of tick-borne diseases and blood-borne pathogens on mental illness rates in endemic areas of the state. Such report shall include but not be limited to:

(a) Considerations of how Lyme, tick-borne illnesses, and other blood-borne pathogens or vector-borne diseases may have correlations with mental illness in infected individuals;

(b) Populations at-risk including those individuals with occupations outdoors and/or increased exposure to vectors;

(c) Diagnostic indicators of mental illness that can be used as guidance for healthcare providers and mental health practitioners;

(d) Historical considerations of infection rates and mental illness indicators that may have gone undiagnosed or misdiagnosed in endemic areas; and
