1 Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "reimagining long-term care task force act".

2 § 2. Reimagining long-term care task force; duties. There is hereby created the reimagining long-term care task force. Such task force shall study the state of long-term care services, options and challenges for older New Yorkers and reimagine how the state can better meet the existing and projected needs of such New Yorkers in ways that prioritize safety and affordability, and enhance the quality of life for those in need of such care. In carrying out its task, the task force shall consider the full continuum of care available to older New Yorkers, including, but not limited to, community-based services, consumer-directed services, independent living, assisted living and skilled-nursing facility care. The task force shall study the limitations currently hampering quality care, both in home-based and facility-based settings, and consider potential models for improvement. In addition, the task force shall study the challenges and issues generated by the coronavirus pandemic, including, but not limited to, infection control protocols and enforcement, staffing shortages, lack of federally mandated crisis plans, visitation bans, and other factors that exacerbated the pandemic's toll on residents and staff of skilled nursing and other adult-care facilities. The task force shall utilize the findings of its study on the impact of the coronavirus pandemic to formulate recommendations on how such skilled nursing and other adult-care facilities, as well as home care service agencies, can better care for and protect the overall well-being of residents and clients in any future emergency.
