IN ASSEMBLY

January 28, 2019

Introduced by M. of A. PRETLOW -- read once and referred to the Committee on Real Property Taxation

AN ACT to amend the real property tax law, in relation to the payment of delinquent taxes; and to repeal subdivision 2 of section 962 of the real property tax law relating to the qualifications of certain corporations or banking institutions to lend money pursuant to the provisions of title 4 of article 9 of the real property tax law and section 968 of the real property tax law relating to tax sale provisions under such title

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds and declares that many taxing jurisdictions are owed millions of dollars annually in unpaid property taxes and that these taxing jurisdictions should be given the opportunity to utilize as many collection methods as possible in an effort to collect as much in unpaid taxes as possible. Such uncollected taxes adversely impact the taxing jurisdictions' ability to meet their operating expenditures and provide for the delivery of necessary and essential local governmental services, amplifying the risk of future real property tax increases and negatively impacting those taxpayers who timely remit payment. It is hereby further declared that limited means exist for taxing jurisdictions to expedite the collection of such delinquent taxes and that it is in the public interest to increase the number of methods available to taxing jurisdictions to expedite such collections and to provide their constituents as many payment methods as possible. It is further declared that many delinquencies often remain unpaid, thereby creating a lien against the affected real property, and that the taxpayers should have alternative methods of making payments to taxing jurisdictions for the payment of their taxes which will in turn enable taxing jurisdictions to expedite the receipt of anticipated revenues and provide a funding source, which will enable taxing jurisdictions more effectively to carry out their public purposes, especially at this time when many taxing jurisdictions have significant budgetary problems.

2. Upon such a payment, a conditional tax receipt shall be issued and the amount thereof conditionally credited by the [~~municipal corporation~~] taxing jurisdiction against the taxes due on the property for which payment is made, but such payment shall not extinguish the tax lien existing against such property until the conditional tax receipt is surrendered for cancellation to the [~~municipal corporation~~] taxing jurisdiction by the entity lending the money to the taxpayer. In addition, the authorized representative of the taxing jurisdiction shall certify by affidavit that payment of the taxes and penalties, interest, court costs or other fees on the described property has been made by the lending entity and not the property owner responsible for the payment of such taxes and that the taxing jurisdiction's tax lien is transferred to the lending entity that paid the taxes and penalties, interest, court costs or other fees. The taxing jurisdiction shall attach to the document the collector's seal of office, if there is such a seal, and deliver the document to the lending entity that paid the taxes and penalties, interest, court costs or other fees within thirty days of receipt of payment. The taxing jurisdiction shall keep a record of all tax liens transferred as provided by this section. A property owner authorizing a lending entity to pay the taxes imposed by a taxing jurisdiction on such property owner's real property must file with the taxing jurisdiction an affidavit containing such authorization, the name of the entity authorized to pay the taxes and penalties, interest, court costs or other fees, a legal description of the property and the street address thereof, if applicable.
