Section 1. The real property law is amended by adding a new section 228-a to read as follows:

§ 228-a. Tenancy in rental buildings; senior citizens; persons with disabilities. 1. Notwithstanding the provisions of section two hundred twenty-eight of this article or any other provision to the contrary, if substantially all of the lessees or tenants occupying units in a rental building are over sixty-five years of age and/or are persons with disabilities, the lessor may not terminate or fail to renew a lease for premises in such building or terminate a tenancy at will or at sufferance, except for cause involving actions of the tenant that violate the terms of the lease, such as the non-payment of rent, without the prior approval of a court of competent jurisdiction. In determining whether to grant approval, the court shall consider factors including: whether the lessor is operating the rental building at a profit or loss; the need for any major capital repairs or improvements that cannot be performed while the tenants are in occupancy; any written or oral representations made by the lessor to tenants about how long they could remain in occupancy; any alternative housing being offered by the lessor, the number of affected tenants; and the length of time the affected tenants have lived in their apartments.
