§ 215-d. Employment tests and selection procedures. 1. If an employer 4 utilizes a test or other selection procedure for purposes of hiring or promotion, the employer shall select and administer the test or other selection procedure so as best to ensure that, when administered to applicants, the test or selection procedure is not designed, intended or used to discriminate, and does not have the effect of discriminating, because of an individual's race, ethnic group, or sex. In selecting or administering such test or selection procedure, the employer shall investigate alternative tests and selection procedures and shall select the alternative that poses the lowest risk of discriminatory impact.

- 2. For purposes of subdivision one of this section and paragraph (a) 14 of subdivision one of section two hundred ninety-six of the executive law, a test or other selection procedure used by an employer for purposes of hiring or promotion shall be deemed not to discriminate on the basis of a finding of adverse impact against a specific protected class if, for the specific protected class:
- (a) the test or selection procedure utilizes pre-audited assessment 20 technology that, upon use, resulted in an increase in the hiring or promotion of that protected class by five percent or greater as compared 22 to the pre-implementation workforce composition of the protected class;
- (b) the employer conducts an annual examination of the pre-audited 23 assessment technology to determine and document whether the technology 2.5 had an adverse impact for the protected class during the audited year;
