applicable income in determining an applicant's award for the academic year, to allow for treatment of an individual, eligible applicant with special circumstances as defined herein.

(ii) Special circumstances may include: (A) expenses of the following nature incurred or paid by one or more of either the parents of the applicant or other dependent child of such parents, the spouse of the applicant, or one or more dependent children of the applicant, such as but not limited to: tuition expenses at an elementary or secondary school, medical or dental expenses not covered by insurance, and unusually high child care costs, (B) recent unemployment of a family member necessitating contributions by any of the aforesaid persons to the family member's support, or (C) other changes in the family's income, the family's assets, or a student's status. (iii) Adequate documentation for such adjustments shall be required to substantiate such special circumstances of individual students. Nothing in this paragraph shall be interpreted as limiting the authority of the student financial aid officer in such cases to request and use supplementary information about the financial status or personal circumstances of such applicants in selecting recipients and determining the amount of awards under subdivision three of section six hundred sixty-seven of this part. No student or parent shall be charged a fee for collecting, processing, or delivering such supplementary information.

(iv) A student financial aid officer shall be considered to be making a necessary adjustment in accordance with subparagraph (i) of this paragraph if:

(A) the officer makes adjustments excluding from family income any proceeds of a sale of farm or business assets of a family if such sale results from a voluntary or involuntary foreclosure, forfeiture or bankruptcy or an involuntary liquidation, or
