AN ACT requiring the boards of trustees of the state university of New York and the city university of New York to conduct a joint study and report on the availability and accessibility of alternative high-quality, lower cost course resources in lieu of traditional textbooks

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The board of trustees of the state university of New York shall conduct a study and prepare a report on the availability and accessibility of alternative high-quality, lower-cost course resources in lieu of traditional textbooks, which may include open education resources, online textbooks and other related educational materials, to students enrolled in the state university or a community college. The report shall include, but not be limited to:

(a) an overview of current initiatives undertaken by the board of trustees of the state university of New York to facilitate access to high-quality, lower-cost alternatives to traditional textbooks;

(b) information related to average traditional textbook costs, the number of students who have used alternative high-quality, lower-cost course resources, and cost savings of students who have purchased such high-quality, lower-cost alternatives in lieu of traditional textbooks;

(c) any challenges associated with making more alternative high-quality, lower-cost course resources widely available;

(d) information regarding other states' best practices, models and initiatives to reduce overall textbook costs at institutions of higher education; and

(e) recommendations on how to expand the use, accessibility, and distribution of alternative high-quality, lower-cost course resources.

§ 2. The board of trustees of the city university of New York shall conduct a study and prepare a report on the availability and accessibil-
