The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1 Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds and 2 declares that the American tradition of volunteer community service is 3 essential to the common good and is vital to the success of not-for-

8 encouragement to participate in volunteer community service activities.
9 Volunteers and volunteer programs should be praised for their efforts in 10 helping and serving others, which result in changes in the way the 11 community views young people and in the way young people view their 12 responsibilities to the community.

13 The legislature further declares its desire to promote further inte-14 gration of community service at institutions of higher education by 15 encouraging student-initiated and student-designated community service 16 projects.
