Section 1. Article 2 of the public health law is amended by adding a new title 7 to read as follows:

TITLE VII

NEW YORK STATE PHARMACEUTICAL DRUG MANUFACTURER AND

WHOLESALE DISCLOSURE ACT

Section 268. Legislative intent.

268-a. Definitions.

268-b. Disclosure requirements.

268-c. Annual consumer guide on pharmaceutical drug manufacturer and wholesaler gifts to health care providers.

268-d. Penalties.

268-e. Rules and regulations.

§ 268. Legislative intent. The legislature finds that the cost of prescription drugs in the United States has grown dramatically. According to the Centers for Disease Control, spending on retail prescription drugs in the United States more than tripled from fifteen billion dollars in nineteen hundred eighty-two to forty-eight billion two hundred million dollars in nineteen hundred ninety-two, then more than tripled again to one hundred sixty-two billion four hundred million dollars in two thousand two. In per capita terms, retail prescription drugs spending increased from sixty-four dollars in nineteen hundred eighty-two to five hundred sixty-nine dollars in two thousand two. In two thousand five, spending on pharmaceuticals rose to two hundred fifty-one billion eight hundred million dollars. While the availability of useful new drugs to treat chronic conditions such as heart disease, hypertension and depression accounts for much of the increased spending, there is widespread concern about the impact aggressive marketing by drug manufacturers and wholesalers has had on drug costs and prescribing patterns. In addition to the explosive growth in direct-to-consumer advertising, these marketing efforts are often directed at health care providers and include gifts, paraphernalia, trips and travel, food and entertainment. A Competitive Media Reporting Study found that drug companies provided seven billion two hundred million dollars worth of free samples to physicians' offices in nineteen hundred ninety-nine. The drug industry sponsored more than three hundred fourteen thousand physician "events" in two thousand one, ranging from catered lunches in hospital conference rooms to weekend getaways at resorts, nearly double the number four years earlier. Drug companies spent some twenty-two billion dollars in marketing in two thousand three. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, ninety percent of drug company marketing is directed at physicians. Esteemed medical publications such as the Journal of the American Medical Association and the British Medical Journal produced studies that suggest these marketing activities do influence health care providers' decisions on prescription drugs, and in ways that are not the best for patients or the health care system itself. The legislature recognizes that drug manufacturers and wholesalers are free to use any legal sales and marketing techniques to promote their products. But the legislature also finds that the consumers have a right to know what gifts, if any, their health care providers are receiving from manufacturers and wholesalers, in order that they might make informed and cost-effective decisions about their prescription drug expenditures.
