AN ACT to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to establishing escrow accounts to protect property owners and their tenants from damages resulting from construction on adjoining property

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

- Section 1. The administrative code of the city of New York is amended by adding a new section 28-103.34.1 to read as follows:
- § 28-103.34.1 Developers' escrow accounts. 1. Definitions. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:
- 5 ADJOINING OWNER. An owner of property where:
- 6 (i) such property shares a property line with a developer's property;
 7 or
- 8 (ii) such property is a historic property within a lateral distance of ninety feet from a developer's property line.
- 10 DEVELOPER. Any individual or entity filing for a permit from the 11 department of buildings.
- 2. Any developer filing plans for a permit with the department of buildings for the construction of a new building, demolition of an
- 14 existing building, or alteration of an existing building that includes
- 15 underpinning, earth movement, excavation within five to ten feet of a
- 16 property line, and/or excavation to a depth of over ten feet, shall,
- 17 prior to the department's grant of any permit for such activity, deposit
- 18 in an escrow account an amount of at least twenty thousand dollars
- 19 multiplied by the number of adjoining owners to such developer's proper-
- 20 ty. The money deposited into such escrow account shall be used only for
- 21 the payment of any adjoining owners' legal and engineering fees result-
- 22 ing from the negotiation of a license agreement between adjoining owners
- 23 and such developer, and/or for the payment of such adjoining owners!

legal fees resulting from a proceeding brought pursuant to section eight hundred eighty-one of the real property actions and proceedings law. The department shall not issue a building permit for any developer unless and until such developer provides the department with (i) written proof of such deposits into such escrow account; and (ii) a map of such developer's property including all adjoining owners with the address of each such adjoining owner labeled.

- 3. A developer depositing money into an escrow account pursuant to subdivision two of this section, shall deposit into a separate escrow account, a dollar amount of at least fifteen percent of the total estimated cost of the project for which such developer has filed for a permit. The money deposited into escrow pursuant to this subdivision shall be for the purpose of:
- (i) paying any legal fees incurred by adjoining owners in the course of litigation with such developer resulting from damages to such adjoining owner's property, where such developer is found to be at fault for such damages;
- (ii) to cover the costs of any actual damages to adjoining owners' property caused by such developer; and/or
- (iii) any relocation costs incurred by tenants of an adjoining owner's property who are displaced due to damages to such adjoining owner's property caused by such developer.
- 4. Any escrow accounts created pursuant to subdivision two or three of this section shall be administered by the office of the New York city comptroller.
- 5. Where the property of any adjacent owner is damaged by construction conducted by a developer, the department of buildings shall immediately issue a stop work order to such developer upon notification of such damages by such adjacent owner or developer. Such developer who has been issued a stop work order shall create and submit to the department and to such adjoining owner's engineer, a plan for mitigation of damages. Such developer shall not resume construction until such developer has received from the department and from such adjoining owner's engineer approvals to resume construction, in writing on the letterheads of each, which shall be provided to such adjoining owner and developer within three days of their execution.
- 6. The office of the New York city comptroller shall establish a procedure for adjoining owners and tenants who wish to file claims against the funds set aside pursuant to this section. Such procedure shall provide for a complete resolution of such claims within sixty days from the date of their commencement.
- 7. Any funds deposited by a developer into an escrow account pursuant to subdivision two or three of this section that are not claimed by an aggrieved adjoining owner or tenant within six months after the department certifies the completion of such developer's project shall be returned to such developer.
- 8. The existence and administration of, and disbursements from, the escrow funds deposited by a developer pursuant to subdivision two or three of this section shall remain uneffected by such developer's declaration of bankruptcy and/or assignment of assets to any other individual or entity.
- 9. The department shall not impose any fine or other penalty against any adjoining owner, for any violation of the provisions of this title that occur as a result of damages caused by a developer's activities which violate this section.
