2 cle 7 to read as follows:

ARTICLE 7

Section 701. Definitions.

703. Purchase and sale disclosure requirements.

704. Closed-end commercial financing disclosure requirements.

705. Open-end commercial financing disclosure requirements.

§ 701. Definitions. For the purposes of this article:

14 (a) "Accounts receivable purchase" means a purchase and sale trans-15 action in which one or more designated accounts are assigned to the 16 purchaser by the seller at a specified discount rate. For purposes of 17 this article, "account" shall have the meaning assigned to that term in 18 paragraph two of subsection (a) of section 9-102 of the Uniform Commer-
19 cial Code. An accounts receivable purchase includes, but is not limited 20 to, a factoring transaction.

21 (b) "Commercial financing" means an accounts receivable purchase, 22 future receivables purchase, commercial line of credit or commercial 23 loan, the proceeds of which the recipient does not intend to use prima-24 rily for personal, family or household purposes. For purposes of deter-

1 rely on any statement of intended purposes by the recipient. The state-2 ment may be a separate statement signed by the recipient; may be 3 contained in the financing application, financing agreement or other 4 document signed or consented to by the recipient; or may be provided 5 orally by the recipient so long as it is documented in the recipient's 6 application file by the provider. Electronic signatures and consents are 7 valid for purposes of the foregoing sentence. The provider shall not be 8 required to ascertain that the proceeds of a commercial financing are 9 used in accordance with the recipient's statement of intended purposes.

10 (c) "Commercial line of credit" means an agreement for one or more 11 extensions of open-end credit, secured or unsecured, the proceeds of 12 which the recipient does not intend to use primarily for personal, fami-
13 ly or household purposes. A "commercial line of credit" includes credit 14 extended by a creditor under a plan in which (i) the creditor reasonably 15 contemplates repeated transactions, (ii) the creditor may impose a 16 finance charge from time to time on an outstanding unpaid balance, and 17 (iii) the amount of credit that may be extended to the recipient during 18 the term of the plan (up to any limit set by the creditor) is generally 19 made available to the extent that any outstanding balance is repaid.

20 (d) "Commercial loan" means a closed-end extension of credit, secured 21 or unsecured, the proceeds of which the recipient does not intend to use 22 primarily for personal, family or household purposes.

23 (e) "Creditor" means the person to which the financing obligation
24 under a commercial line of credit or commercial loan is initially owed.
25 For purposes of this article, a creditor may also be a provider.

26 (f) "Financial institution" means any of the following: (i) a bank, 27 trust company, or industrial loan company doing business under the 28 authority of, or in accordance with, a license, certificate or charter
29 issued by the United States, this state or any other state, district, 30 territory, or commonwealth of the United States that is authorized to 31 transact business in this state; (ii) a federally chartered savings and 32 loan association, federal savings bank or federal credit union that is 33 authorized to transact business in this state; or (iii) a savings and 34 loan association, savings bank or credit union organized under the laws 35 of this or any other state that is authorized to transact business in 36 this state.

37 (g) "Future receivables purchase" means a purchase and sale trans-
38 action in which the purchaser acquires the right to receive all or a 39 portion of future accounts generated by a seller at a specified discount
40 rate. For purposes of this article, "account" shall have the meaning 41 assigned to that term in paragraph two of subsection (a) of section
42 9-102 of the Uniform Commercial Code. A future receivables purchase 43 includes, but is not limited to, a merchant cash advance transaction.

44 (h) "Offer" means the specific terms of a commercial financing agree-45 ment which, if accepted by a recipient, shall be binding on the creditor 46 or purchaser, as applicable, subject to any specific requirements stated 47 in such terms.

48 (i) "Person" means an individual, corporation, partnership, limited 49 liability company, joint venture, association, joint stock company, 50 trust or unincorporated organization including, but not limited to, a 51 sole proprietorship.

52 (j) "Provider" means a person who extends an offer of commercial 53 financing to a recipient. A provider may include a creditor or purchas-54 er. Unless otherwise exempt, "provider" also includes a person that is 55 not a creditor or purchaser but who solicits and offers commercial 56 financing on behalf of a third party. For the avoidance of doubt, the

1 extension of an offer or providing disclosures for a commercial financ-2 ing, in and of itself, shall not be construed to mean that a provider is 3 originating, making, funding or providing commercial financing.

4 (k) "Purchaser" means the person that initially acquires the right to 5 receive payments on current or future receivables from the seller in an 6 accounts receivable purchase or future receivables purchase transaction.
7 For purposes of this act, a purchaser may also be a provider.

8 (l) "Recipient" means a person who is presented an offer of commercial 9 financing by a provider. A recipient may be a borrower or seller (or 10 its authorized representative).

11 § 702. Exemptions. This article shall not apply to, and shall not 12 place any additional requirements or obligations upon, any of the 13 following:

14 (a) a financial institution;

15 (b) a person acting in its capacity as a technology services provider,

28 at the time of extending an offer in an accounts receivable purchase or

30 (a) The purchase price;

31 (b) The disbursement amount, after any fees deducted or withheld at 32 disbursement;

33 (c) The total amount of current or future receivables sold, which is 34 the disbursement amount plus the total cost of the financing;

35 (d) The total cost of the financing, expressed as a dollar cost,
36 including any and all fees, expenses and charges that are to be paid by 37 the recipient and that cannot be avoided by the recipient;

38 (e) The estimated annual percentage rate:

39 (i) when calculating repayment costs dependent on the recipient's 40 receivables, whether currently owed or projected, the estimated annual 41 percentage rate, calculated with all fees and charges included, provided 42 as a range, with at least three different repayment times provided and a 43 narrative explanation of how each rate was derived. Any estimated annual 44 percentage rate provided pursuant to this subparagraph shall be (A) 45 calculated using the value of purchased accounts receivable or the 46 projected volume of future receivables based on the recipient's average 47 historical sales, or the sales projections relied on by the provider in 48 underwriting; and (B) accompanied by a disclosure stating that the esti-49 imated annual percentage rate is intended as a good faith estimate, and 50 may not be accurate if the recipient repays more quickly or slowly than 51 the estimated term; or

52 (ii) when calculating repayment costs as a fixed payment, the annual 53 percentage rate, expressed as a nominal yearly rate, inclusive of any

6 provider in underwriting;

7 (h) The payment amounts:

8 (i) for payment amounts that are fixed, the payment amounts and 9 frequency (e.g., daily, weekly, monthly), and the average monthly 10 payment amount; or

11 (ii) for payment amounts that are variable, a payment schedule or a 12 description of the method used to calculate the amounts and frequency of 13 payments, and the estimated average monthly payment amount;

14 (i) A description of all other potential fees and charges that can be 15 avoided by the recipient, including, but not limited to, draw fees, late

18 charges due when purchase price is paid in full; and 19 (k) A description of the current or future receivables purchased.

20 § 704. Closed-end commercial financing disclosure requirements. A

29 including any and all fees, expenses and charges that are to be paid by

32 repays the commercial financing in its entirety according to the agreed 33 upon original payment schedule;

5 disbursement;

6 (c) The total repayment amount, which is the draw amount, less any 7 fees deducted or withheld at disbursement, plus the total cost of the 8 financing. The total repayment amount shall assume the amount scheduled 9 to be drawn by the recipient at the time the offer is extended, or if no

12 the duration of the term or draw period;

13 (d) The total cost of the financing, expressed as a dollar cost,

43 provider from providing or disclosing additional information on a 44 commercial financing being offered to a recipient.

45 § 707. Estimates. If any information necessary for an accurate disclo-
46 sure is unknown to the provider at the time of a commercial financing 47 offer, the provider shall make the required disclosure based on the best 48 information reasonably available at the time the disclosure is provided 49 and shall state clearly that the disclosure is an estimate. If the 50 provider is required to make any assumptions to provide the required
51 disclosure, such assumptions shall be clearly and conspicuously 52 described to the recipient in writing at the time of the offer.

53 § 708. Penalties. (a) A provider that knowingly violates any provision 54 of this article, as determined by the superintendent, shall be liable

2 name of the state pursuant to existing authority available to the super-3 intendent under state law.

4 (b) In addition to any penalty imposed pursuant to subsection (a) of 5 this section, upon a finding by the superintendent that a provider has 6 knowingly violated this act, the superintendent may order additional 7 relief, including, but not limited to, a permanent or preliminary 8 injunction on behalf of any recipient affected by the violation.

9 § 2. This act shall take effect immediately.
