September 23, 2020

Introduced by Sen. SERINO -- read twice and ordered printed, and when printed to be committed to the Committee on Rules

AN ACT to amend the labor law, in relation to the identification of sectors of the local and regional economy with anticipated growth and/or potential for future growth and the assessment of underrepresentation of women in such sectors; and to amend the education law, in relation to establishing the New York state underrepresented women's incentive award

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1 Section 1. Legislative intent. In order to promote economic growth,
2 New York must pursue a workforce that is both skilled and diverse. In 3 pursuit of this goal, the legislature seeks to identify sectors that 4 will benefit from additional workforce development, further identify in 5 which of those sectors women are historically underrepresented and 6 increase the number of women trained to work in those sectors.

7 § 2. The labor law is amended by adding a new section 10-d to read as 8 follows:

9 § 10-d. Underrepresented workforce development. 1. As used in this 10 section:

11 (a) "local workforce development board" means a local board that sets 12 policy for workforce development within the local area, as set forth in 13 section 107 of the federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 14 2014 (Public Law No. 113-128); and

15 (b) "New York state underrepresented women's incentive award" means an 16 award that provides either free tuition or an educational grant as set 17 forth in section six hundred sixty-nine-i of the education law, or that 18 covers costs associated with enrollment in a certification or design-19 ation program.

20 2. Each local workforce development board shall convene, at least once 21 annually, a group of stakeholders to identify sectors for growth and 22 enhanced representation. Stakeholders may include local chambers of 23 commerce, industrial development agencies, employers, area trade unions, 24 institutions of higher education, and other appropriate parties. Such

1 stakeholders shall identify sectors of the local and regional economy
2 with anticipated growth and/or potential for future growth and assess 3 workforce development needs associated with such growth. Among those 4 sectors identified, local workforce development boards shall further 5 identify in which sectors women are historically underrepresented. These 6 shall be known as "sectors for growth and enhanced representation".

7 3. Once sectors for growth and enhanced representation are identified, 8 local workforce development boards shall work with educational providers
9 to develop educational pathways suitable for grades nine through twelve
10 leading to a career in those sectors. Such pathways may be provided
11 through boards of cooperative educational services (BOCES), community
12 colleges, or other entities. Pathways may lead to certification or 13 college credit, and shall be provided free of charge to participating 14 females. Entities providing such courses may be reimbursed for their 15 services.

16 4. Local workforce development boards shall also identify associate 17 and bachelor degree programs that support sectors for growth and 18 enhanced representation. Women enrolling in these programs shall be 19 eligible for a New York state underrepresented women's incentive award.

20 5. The department of labor shall be distributed funds, subject to 21 appropriation, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this 22 section.
