26 entity that uses or intends to use the property for that purpose.

27 § 101. Restriction on regulations affecting religious land use. 1.
28 Substantial burdens.

29 (a) A government shall not impose or implement a land use regulation
30 in a manner that imposes a substantial burden on the religious exercise
31 of a person, including a religious assembly or institution, unless the 32 government demonstrates that imposition of the burden on that person,
33 assembly, or institution:

34 (1) is in furtherance of a compelling interest of the government; and

35 (2) is the least restrictive means of furthering such compelling
36 interest.

37 (b) The provisions of this subdivision shall apply in any case in 38 which:

39 (1) the substantial burden is imposed in a program or activity that
40 receives government or federal financial assistance, even if the burden
41 results from a rule of general applicability; or

42 (2) the substantial burden affects, or the removal of that substantial
43 burden would affect, commerce with foreign nations, with another state
44 or municipal corporation, or with Native American tribes, even if the 45 burden results from a rule of general applicability; or

46 (3) the substantial burden is imposed in the implementation of a land
47 use regulation or system of land use regulations, under which a govern-
48 ment makes, or has in place, formal or informal procedures or practices
49 that permit the government to make, individualized assessments of the 50 proposed uses for the property involved.

51 2. Discrimination and exclusion. A government shall not impose or 52 implement a land use regulation:

53 (a) in a manner that treats a religious assembly or institution on 54 less than equal terms with a nonreligious assembly or institution;

55 (b) that discriminates against any assembly or institution on the 56 basis of religion or religious denomination; or

(c) that totally excludes religious assemblies from a jurisdiction or unreasonably limits religious assemblies, institutions, or structures within a jurisdiction.

3. Definition. As used in this section, "substantial burden" may include:

(a) being prohibited from using a property for religious exercise where the use is otherwise permitted by right or special exception;

(b) an actual and substantial financial burden in proceeding with a land use project which is not attributable to a factor or factors other than the land use regulation at issue; or

(c) an actual and substantial delay in proceeding with a land use project which is not attributable to a factor or factors other than the land use regulation at issue.

§ 102. Restriction on regulations affecting religious exercise of institutionalized persons. 1. A government shall not impose a substantial burden on the religious exercise of a person residing in or confined to an institution as defined in section one hundred of this article, even if the burden results from a rule of general applicability, unless the government demonstrates that imposition of the burden on that person:

(a) is in furtherance of a compelling interest of the government; and

(b) is the least restrictive means of furthering such compelling interest.

2. The provisions of this section shall apply in any case in which:

(a) the substantial burden is imposed in a program or activity that receives government assistance;

(b) the substantial burden affects, or the removal of that substantial burden would affect, commerce with foreign nations, with another state or municipal corporation, or with Native American tribes.

§ 103. Government discretion in alleviating burdens on religious exercise. A government may avoid the preemptive force of any provision of this chapter by changing the policy or practice that results in a substantial burden on religious exercise, by retaining the policy or practice and exempting the substantially burdened religious exercise, by providing exemptions from the policy or practice for applications that substantially burden religious exercise, or by any other means that eliminates the substantial burden.

§ 104. Judicial relief. 1. (a) A person may assert a violation of this article as a claim or defense in a judicial proceeding and obtain appropriate relief against a government. Jurisdiction and standing to assert a claim or defense under this article shall be governed by the general rules of jurisdiction and standing under New York law.

(b) The attorney general may bring an action for injunctive or declaratory relief to enforce compliance with this article. Nothing in this article shall be construed to deny, impair, or otherwise affect any right or authority of the attorney general or of any agency, officer, or employee of the state, acting under any law other than this article, to institute or intervene in any proceeding.

(c) An action may be brought as provided in paragraph (a) or (b) of this subdivision as soon as any final government action occurs.

2. If a plaintiff produces prima facie evidence to support a claim alleging a violation of this article, the government shall bear the burden of persuasion on any element of the claim, except that the plaintiff shall bear the burden of persuasion on whether the law (including a regulation) or government practice that is challenged by the claim substantially burdens the plaintiff's exercise of religion.

1 3. The court, in its discretion and in an appropriate case, may award
2 actual damages and reasonable attorney's fees to a prevailing claimant.

3 4. If the only jurisdictional basis for applying a provision of this
4 article is a claim that a substantial burden by a government on reli-
5 gious exercise affects, or that removal of that substantial burden would
6 affect, commerce with foreign nations, another state or municipal corpo-
7 ration, or with Native American tribes, the provision shall not apply if 8 the government demonstrates that all substantial burdens on, or the 9 removal of all substantial burdens from, similar religious exercise
10 throughout the state would not lead in the aggregate to a substantial
11 effect on commerce with foreign nations, another state, or with Native
12 American tribes.

13 § 105. Rules of construction. Nothing in this article shall:

14 1. Be construed to authorize any government to burden any religious 15 belief.

16 2. Create any basis for restricting or burdening religious exercise or 17 for claims against a religious organization, including any religiously
18 affiliated school or university, not acting under color of law.

19 3. Create or preclude a right of any religious organization to receive 20 funding or other assistance from a government or the federal government,
21 or of any person to receive government funding for a religious activity;
22 provided, however, that a government may be required to incur expenses
23 in its own operations to avoid imposing a substantial burden on reli-
24 gious exercise.

25 4. Authorize a government to regulate or affect, directly or indirect-
26 ly, the activities or policies of a person other than a government as a 27 condition of receiving funding or other assistance, or restrict any 28 authority that may exist under other law to so regulate or affect such 29 activities or policies, except as provided in this article.

30 5. With respect to a claim brought under this chapter, be construed as 31 proof that a substantial burden on a person's religious exercise
32 affects, or removal of that burden would affect, commerce with foreign
33 nations, another state, or with Native American tribes, shall not estab-
34 lish any inference or presumption that the legislature intends that any 35 religious exercise is, or is not, subject to any law other than this
36 article.

37 6. Be construed to restrict, negate or otherwise weaken any
38 protections afforded under the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized
39 Persons Act of 2000 (RLUIPA), 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000cc, et seq.

40 7. Preempt any other state law that is equally as protective of reli-
41 gious exercise as, or more protective of religious exercise than, this
42 article.

43 § 106. Broad construction. This article shall be construed in favor of 44 a broad protection of religious exercise, to the maximum extent permit-
45 ted by the terms of this article, the Constitution of the state of New 46 York and the Constitution of the United States.

47 § 107. Severability. If any clause, sentence, paragraph, section or 48 part of this article shall be adjudged by any court of competent juris-
49 isdiction to be invalid and after exhaustion of all further judicial
50 review, the judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remain-
51 der thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause,
52 sentence, paragraph, section or part of this article directly involved
53 in the controversy in which the judgment shall have been rendered.

54 § 4. This act shall take effect immediately.
