AN ACT to establish a task force on the condition of African American men in New York state

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Legislative intent. The legislature finds that African American men: (a) are disproportionately less likely to complete high school and to obtain a post-secondary education; (b) are more likely to be incarcerated or on parole; (c) are more likely to have lower lifetime economic earnings; (d) are more likely to have been a part of the child welfare population; (e) are more likely to have a shorter life expectancy; and (f) are more likely to have health problems, such as HIV/AIDS, drug dependency, heart disease, obesity, and diabetes. The legislature additionally finds that the state of New York has a compelling interest in determining the causes of these problems and in developing appropriate remedies.

§ 2. The New York state task force on the condition of African American men is hereby established. The role of the task force includes but is not limited to:

(a) assessing the causal factors for the condition of African American men;

(b) assessing state programs and initiatives that serve to improve the condition of African American men and identifying the gaps in such services;

(c) developing strategies to reduce duplication of services and to maximize coordination between state agencies, providers and educational institutions, including developing benchmarks to measure progress; and

(d) preparing a report for submission to the governor and the legislature that provides specific recommendations regarding existing state
