Introduced by Sen. COMRIE -- read twice and ordered printed, and when printed to be committed to the Committee on Cities 1

AN ACT to amend the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to enacting the "New York city teleworking expansion act"

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "New York city teleworking expansion act".

§ 2. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds and declares that the health and safety of the population living in and around the densely populated New York city metropolitan region is a matter of state concern, as is the economic vitality and the effectiveness of mass tran-7 sit in that region, all of which are threatened by the amount of traffic congestion inside of, and into, New York city, and the overcrowded 9 buses, subways and railroads within the region. Traffic congestion is particularly harmful to the mass transit bus systems run by the Metro-10 11 politan Transportation Authority, creating delays and hindering the growth of essential surface mass transportation systems, and the entire 12 mass transit system suffers from severe overcrowding. The negative 13 14 impact of traffic congestion in New York city on the health, economy and 15 mass transit systems of the downstate region, as well as the overcrowding of the region's mass transit systems, were established at legislative hearings in the spring of 2007, as well as during the hearings and 17 reports of the legislatively created New York City Traffic Mitigation 18 Commission. During these hearings, it was established that a very large 19 20 number of New York city employees drive to work both from points within 21 New York city and without, that New York city lacks a working and 22 adequate telecommuting program for its employees, and that an effective telecommuting program would significantly reduce the number of such 24 employees driving to work. Likewise, a telecommuting program for New 25 York city employees would also allow employees who use mass transit to

1 work from home, thereby alleviating the current overcrowding in the region's mass transit systems. Such a program as established by this legislation would address the state's concern that the health, safety, 3 4 economic vitality and mass transit operations of the downstate region be preserved and protected.

- § 3. The administrative code of the city of New York is amended by adding a new section 12-141 to read as follows:
- 8 § 12-141 Teleworking programs. a. Each agency shall establish a policy 9 and program to allow employees to perform all or a portion of their duties through teleworking to the maximum extent possible without dimin-10 11 ished employee performance. Each agency shall designate a "telework coordinator" to be responsible for overseeing the implementation of 12 13 teleworking programs.
- b. For the purposes of this section, the term "telework" shall mean to 15 perform normal and regular work functions on a workday that ordinarily 16 would be performed at the agency's principal location at a different location, thereby eliminating or substantially reducing the physical commute to and from such agency's principal location.
- 19 § 4. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall 20 have become a law.
