- (a) "cervical insufficiency" means cervical dilation presumed to be due to weakness of cervical tissue, and not explained by another abnormality, that: (i) predisposes a pregnant patient to early labor; or (ii) contributes to or causes midterm miscarriage or premature delivery of a live fetus during the second trimester of the pregnancy; and
- (b) "maternal health care provider" or "provider" shall mean a physician, midwife, nurse practitioner, or physician assistant, acting within his or her scope of practice, managing the pregnancy of a pregnant patient.
- § 2500-m. Cervical insufficiency; testing. 1. Unless contraindicated for the patient, each maternal health care provider as defined in section twenty-five hundred-1 of this article, shall order a transvaginal ultrasound at least once between the sixteenth and twenty-fourth weeks of pregnancy for each pregnant patient under the provider's care whose pregnancy is of at least sixteen weeks duration.
- 2. Unless contraindicated for the patient, each maternal health care provider as defined in section twenty-five hundred-l of this article, shall order a transvaginal ultrasound every two weeks from the sixteenth week through the twenty-fourth week of pregnancy for each pregnant patient whose pregnancy is of at least sixteen weeks duration and who has any of the following:
- (a) a history of early delivery between thirteen and thirty-seven weeks in any prior pregnancy;
- 25 (b) a history of any surgical procedure, including office procedures, 26 performed on the patient's cervix, including but not limited to loop 27 electrosurgical excision procedure (LEEP) and cone biopsy;
  - (c) multifetal pregnancies;
- 29 (d) a uterine unification defect, including but not limited to bicorn-30 uate, septate or unicornuate uterus, or any congenital structural defect 31 of a kidney; or
- 32 (e) a history of prior delivery occurring at or near term by cesarean
  33 after obstructed labor.
- 3. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a pregnant patient to proceed with a transvaginal ultrasound ordered in accordance with the provisions of this section.
- § 3. This act shall take effect on the one hundred eightieth day after it shall have become a law. Effective immediately the addition, amendment and/or repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of this act on its effective date are authorized to be made and completed on or before such date.
