5. "Animal cruelty" means conduct in violation of section three hundred fifty-three, three hundred fifty-three-a, three hundred fifty-three-c, three hundred fifty-six, three hundred fifty-nine, three hundred fifty-nine-a, or three hundred sixty of this chapter.

§ 98. Prohibitions. No person shall knowingly sell, offer for sale, or advertise for sale any farm animal product where the farm animal from which the product was produced had been subject to animal cruelty as defined in section ninety-seven of this article, or where any producer of such farm animal product engages in animal cruelty as part of their business practices. Any person who sells, offers for sale, or advertises for sale a farm animal product where the farm animal from which the product was produced had been subject to animal cruelty as defined in section ninety-seven of this article, or where any producer of such farm animal product engages in animal cruelty as part of their business practices, after having purchased such a product in or from a jurisdiction in which such animal cruelty is legal and routine shall be deemed to have knowledge of such animal cruelty. Such a presumption shall be rebuttable with evidence that the person made reasonable efforts to ensure that the farm animal product in question did not come from a farm animal which had been subjected to animal cruelty as defined in section ninety-seven of this article or where the producer of such farm animal product did not engage in animal cruelty as part of their business practices.

§ 99. Enforcement. 1. The commissioner may institute such action at law or in equity as may appear necessary to enforce compliance with any provisions of this article and any rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner to carry out the provisions of this article and in addition may apply for relief by injunction if necessary to protect the public interest without being compelled to allege or prove that an adequate remedy at law does not exist. Such application may be made to the supreme court in any district or county as provided in the civil practice law and rules, or to the supreme court in the third judicial district. If the commissioner shall determine that a person has knowingly sold, knowingly offered for sale, or knowingly advertised for sale a farm animal product in violation of this article, the commissioner shall seek statutory damages of one hundred dollars per unit of product. Such statutory damages shall not in aggregate exceed ten thousand dollars for the first violation; however subsequent violations shall have no maximum aggregate fine.

2. Whenever the commissioner or his duly authorized representative shall find any farm animal product which the commissioner has probable cause to believe was or is being sold, offered for sale, or advertised for sale in violation of this article or the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, the commissioner may seize or quarantine such product. Following such seizure or quarantine the commissioner shall hold a hearing in accordance with the provisions of section two hundred two-b of this chapter. The determination of the commissioner following such hearing shall be subject to judicial review in the manner and within the time limits set forth therein.

§ 2. This act shall take effect January 1, 2022.
