9280

IN SENATE

May 12, 2022

Introduced by Sen. HOYLMAN -- read twice and ordered printed, and when printed to be committed to the Committee on Children and Families

AN ACT to amend the domestic relations law and the family court act, in relation to establishing confirmatory adoptions and allowing courts to grant the custody and support from more than two parents

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1	Section 1. Section 109 of the domestic relations law is amended by
2	adding a new subdivision 8 to read as follows:
3	8. "Confirmatory adoption" shall mean an adoption of a child by an
4	existing legal parent pursuant to title five of this article.
5	§ 2. Article 7 of the domestic relations law is amended by adding a б	new title 5 to read as follows:
7	TITLE V
8	CONFIRMATORY ADOPTIONS
9	Section 119. Purpose of title.
10	119-a. Eligibility to file for confirmatory adoption.
11	119-b. Procedure on application for confirmatory adoption.
12	119-c. Multi-parent adoption.
13	§ 119. Purpose of title. The purpose of this title is to create a
14	streamlined adoption process for a child's parents to confirm their
15	parent-child relationship through an adoption in order to protect the
16	child's best interests. Such adoption process shall ensure all parents
17	are afforded full rights and protections equivalent to that of biolog-
18	ical parents, especially for children conceived through assisted reprod-
19	uction.
20	§ 119-a. Eligibility to file for confirmatory adoption. 1. Parents of
21	a child may file a joint petition for a confirmatory adoption to confirm
22	their parentage. Those eligible include the child's intended parents as
23	defined in section 581-102 of the family court act and the current or
24	former spouse of a birthing parent, provided that the person is named on
25	the child's birth certificate as a parent.

EXPLANATION--Matter in italics (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [-] is old law to be omitted.

LBD15864-01-2

1	2. All living parents of a child seeking to file for confirmatory
2	adoption pursuant to subdivision one of this section shall jointly file
3	a petition for a judgment of adoption with the court and include:
4	(a) proof of marriage between the petitioners, entered into prior to 5	the birth of the child; or
6	(b) a government-issued birth certificate listing petitioners as
7
	parents of the child.
8	§ 119-b. Procedure on application for confirmatory adoption. 1. Along
9	with the complaint for a final judgment of adoption, an individual or
10	individuals seeking adoption shall file a petition with the court certi-
11	fying the following:
12	(a) the applicant's name or applicants' names, residential address and
13	telephone number;
14	(b) a statement by the applicant or applicants that they are seeking
15	certification by the court as a person or persons qualified to adopt the
16	child to whom they are already a legal parent;
17	(c) a statement by the applicant or applicants that all the child's
18	living parent's consent to the confirmatory adoption; and
19	(d) a written declaration signed by all parties to the action that
20	describes in sufficient detail how the child was conceived and identi-
21	fies any other involved parties so that the court may determine whether
22	those individuals have parental rights to the child.
23	2. The court shall issue a judgment of adoption confirming parties to 24	the action as the legal parents of the child without the need for an
25	appearance by the parties.
26	3. If there are any other individuals with a claim to parentage, the
27	court may determine if the parental rights of that individual have been
28	relinguished or terminated and proceed without a hearing pursuant to
29	subdivision two of this section.
30	4. The court shall, if it determines that another individual may have
31	existing parental rights to the child, order and conduct a hearing on
32	the matter, provided notice is given to all parties of the action,
33	before issuing a judgment of adoption. If the court finds there is a
34	competing claim of parentage and all parties do not consent to such 35	claim, the court shall dismiss the petition without prejudice and the
36	parties may refile their adoption petition pursuant to section one
37	hundred fifteen of this article.
38	5. The court filing fees and other certification, investigation, and
39	criminal background check requirements for private-placement adoptions
40	pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-d or one hundred sixteen of this
41	article shall not apply.
42	6. Nothing in this title shall be deemed to summarily extinguish or
43	terminate the parental rights of any individual.
44	7. The chief administrator of the court shall promulgate the necessary
45	rules to effectuate the provisions of this title.
46	§ 119-c. Multi-parent adoption. 1. The termination of the parental
47	duties and responsibilities of an existing parent or parents pursuant to
48	section one hundred eleven of this article may be waived if both the
49	existing parent or parents and the prospective adoptive parent or
50	parents consent to such waiver in writing at any time prior to the
51	finalization of the adoption. Such written consent shall be filed with
52	the court.
5⊿ 53	2. After receipt of the waiver pursuant to subdivision one of this
53 54	section, if the prospective adoptive parent has already been recognized
54 55	to be one of more than two legal parents of the child, the court may
55	to be one of more than two regar parents of the child, the Court May

1	proceed with the confirmatory adoptive process pursuant to section one
2	hundred nineteen-b of this title.
3	§ 3. The family court act is amended by adding a new article 5-D to
4	read as follows:
5	ARTICLE 5-D
6	PRESUMPTION OF PARENTAGE
7	PART 1. General provisions (582-101)
8	2. De facto parent (582-102 - 582-104)
9	3. Court adjudication of parentage for a child with multiple
10	parents (582-105 - 582-106)
11	PART 1
12	GENERAL PROVISIONS
13	Section 582-101. Presumption of parentage.
14	§ 582-101. Presumption of parentage. (a) An individual is presumed to 15	be a parent of a child if, except as otherwise provided under section
16	581-406 of this chapter, the individual and the person who gave birth to
17	the child:
18	(1) are married to each other and the child is born during the
19	marriage, whether the marriage is or could be declared invalid;
20	(2) are married to each other and the child is born no later than
21	three hundred days after the marriage is terminated by death, divorce,
22 23	dissolution, annulment, or declaration of invalidity, or after a decree of separation or separate maintenance, whether the marriage is or could
23 24	be declared invalid; or
25	(3) have married each other after the birth of the child, whether the
26	marriage is or could be declared invalid, and the individual at any time
27	asserted parentage of the child and:
28	(i) the assertion is in a record filed with a state agency maintaining
29	birth records;
30	(ii) the individual agreed to be and is named as a parent of the child
31	on the birth certificate of the child; or
32	(iii) the individual resided in the same household with the child and
33	openly held out the child as the individual's own child from the time
34	the child was born or adopted and for a period of at least two years
35	thereafter, including any period of temporary absence.
36	(b) A presumption of parentage under this section may be overcome, and
37	competing claims to parentage may be resolved, only by an adjudication
38
39	PART 2
40	DE FACTO PARENT
41	Section 582-102. Definitions.
42 43	582-103. Eligibility for a de facto parent to file for a judg- ment of parentage.
43 44	582-104. Procedure for a de facto parent to file for a judgment
45	of parentage.
46	§ 582-102. Definitions. As used in this article, the following terms
47	shall have the following meanings:
48	(a) "Parentage" means the continuing relationship between a child and
49	their parents, which can be shared, in certain circumstances, by more
50	than two parents, each having a degree of responsibility.
51	(b) "De facto parent" means a person who exercised parental responsi-
52	bility for the child and acted in a parental role from birth, or for at
53	least one year, to have established a bonded and dependent relationship
54	with the child that is parental in nature.

3

4

1	§ 582-103. Eligibility for a de facto parent to file for a judgment of
2	parentage. (a) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who
3	claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is only one other
4	person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child, the
5	court shall adjudicate the petitioner to be a parent of the child if the
6	person demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that:
7	(1) The person resided with the child as a regular member of the
8	child's household from the child's birth, or for at least one year,
9	unless the court finds good cause to accept a shorter period of resi-
10	dence as a regular member of the child's household;
11	(2) The person engaged in consistent caretaking of the child which may
12	include regularly caring for the child's needs and making day-to-day
13	decisions regarding the child individually or cooperatively with another
14	legal parent;
15	(3) The person undertook full and permanent responsibilities of a
16	parent of the child without expectation of financial compensation;
17	(4) The person held out the child as their own;
18	(5) Another person consented to, and fostered, the petitioner's forma-
19	tion and establishment of a parent-like relationship with the child; (6) The person established a bonded and dependent relationship with
20	the child that is parental in nature; and
21 22	(7) Continuing the relationship between the person and the child is in
22 23	the best interest of the child.
23 24	(b) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to
25	be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other
26	person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the
27	court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-
28	106 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to
29	the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication
30	of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the
31	parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights
32	pursuant to any other law of the state.
33	(c) An existing parent of the child may use evidence of duress, coer-
34	cion or threat of harm to contest an allegation that the person seeking
35	to be adjudicated as a parent fostered or supported a bonded and depend-
36	ent relationship as described in this section. Such evidence may
37	include:
38	(1) Whether within a ten-year period preceding the date of the
39	proceeding, the person seeking to be adjudicated as a de facto parent:
40	(i) has been convicted of domestic assault, sexual assault or sexual
41	exploitation of the child or a parent of the child;
42	(ii) has been convicted of a family violence crime, as defined by
43	title 0 of the penal law, and is or has been subject to an order of
44	protection issued by a family court; or
45	(iii) was found by a court to have committed abuse against the child
46	or a parent of the child;
47	(2) A sworn affidavit from a domestic violence counselor or sexual
48	assault counselor, provided the person who had confidential communi-
49	cations with the domestic violence counselor or sexual assault counselor
50	has waived the privilege; or
51	(3) Other credible evidence of abuse against the parent of the child
52	or the child, including, but not limited to, the parent's or child's
53	sworn affidavit or an affidavit from a social services provider, health
54	care provider, clergy person, attorney, or other professional from whom
55	the parent or child sought assistance regarding the abuse.

1	§ 582-104. Procedure for a de facto parent to file for a judgment of
2	parentage. (a) A proceeding to establish parentage of a child pursuant
3	to this article may be commenced by a person who:
4	(1) Is alive when the proceeding is commenced; and
5	(2) Claims to be a de facto parent of the child; or
6	(3) Claims to be the child of a de facto parent.
7	(b) A person seeking to be adjudicated as a parent of a child shall
8	file a petition with the court before the child reaches eighteen years
9	of age. The child is required to be alive at the time of the filing.
10	The petition shall include a verified affidavit alleging facts to
11	support the existence of a de facto parent relationship with the child.
12	The petition and affidavit shall be served on the following: all parents
13	of the child; the child; the child's legal guardian if the child is
14	under eighteen years of age; and, any other necessary party to the 15	proceeding.
16	(c) An adverse party, parent or legal guardian may file a pleading and
17	verified affidavit in response to the petition that shall be served on 18	all parties to the proceeding.
19	(d) The court shall determine on the basis of the pleadings and affi-
20	davits whether the person seeking to be adjudicated a parent has
21	presented prima facie evidence of the criteria for parentage pursuant to
22	subdivision (a) of section 582-103 of this part and, therefore, has
23	standing to proceed with a parentage action. The court, in its sole
24	discretion, may hold a hearing to determine disputed facts that are
25	necessary and material to the issue of standing.
26	(e) If the child for whom the person is seeking to be adjudicated a
27	parent has two parents at the time the petition is filed and there is
28	litigation pending between the parents at the time the petition is filed
29	regarding custody or visitation with respect to the child, a parent may
30	introduce evidence that the de facto parent action is being brought to
31	interfere improperly in the pending litigation. Based on such evidence,
32	the court may determine that allowing the de facto parent's petition for
33	judgment of parentage to proceed would not be in the best interests of
34	the child and may dismiss the petition without prejudice.
35	(f) The court may enter an interim order concerning contact between
36	the child and a person with standing seeking adjudication under section
37	582-103 of this part as a parent of the child.
38	(g) Any person adjudicated to be a de facto parent of a child under
39	this section shall have all the legal rights and responsibilities of 40	parentage under New York law, including the obligation to support the
41	child.
42	PART 3
43	COURT ADJUDICATION OF PARENTAGE FOR A CHILD WITH MULTIPLE PARENTS
44	Section 582-105. Adjudicating competing claims of parentage.
45	582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple
46	parents.
47	§ 582-105. Adjudicating competing claims of parentage. (a) In a proceed-
48	ing to adjudicate competing claims of parentage of a child by two or
49	more individuals, the court shall adjudicate parentage in the best
50	interest of the child, based on:
51	(1) the age of the child;
52	(2) the length of time during which each individual assumed the role
53	of parent of the child;
54	(3) the nature of the relationship between the child and each individ-
55	ual;

<pre>each individual is not recognized: (5) the basis for each individual's claim to parentage of the child; and (6) other equitable factors arising from the disruption of the relationship between the child and each individual or the likelihood of other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582- 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. $ 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjud- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who as fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period: (b) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. </pre>
 (5) the basis for each individual's claim to parentage of the child; and (6) other equitable factors arising from the disruption of the relationship between the child and each individual or the likelihood of other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating compecting claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-16103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child, shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child understall to blar and bas fulfilled the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child is removed from a parent at any other stands to be their parent: and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a person who has fulfilled the fore any advert detare and proceeding to a stable placement with a person who has fulfille listend and ast	1	(4) the harm to the child if the relationship between the child and
 and (6) other equitable factors arising from the disruption of the relationship between the child and each individual or the likelihood of other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) The a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied. the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall award parentage to the laws of this state. 5 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court finds that failure to reaconsize more than two parents would be court finds that failure to reaconsize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period: (b) The harm if the child is resported from a person the child understaids to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents or argument to parent at any other parent det or a writ of habeas corpus to parent as any other section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any there thereafter of the supremend court; and on the return thereafter any apply to the supr	2	each individual is not recognized;
 (6) other equitable factors arising from the disruption of the relationship between the child and each individual or the likelihood of other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied. the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psycholocical needs for care and affection and basesumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a parent may apply to the supreme court is and may at any ther point in the child is fresiding within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return therest and other is residing within this state, parent and the child is physical meads and parentage for such they claiter as the cases may require, and may at any time thereafter weater or modify	3	(5) the basis for each individual's claim to parentage of the child;
 relationship between the child and each individual or the likelihood of other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section shall award parentage to the person as a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parents is rights under the laws of this state. S 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child undershall not of a substantial period: (c) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a parent. parent, including: (d) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or averent to there a state and stoce and the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (d) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or averement to parent at any other point in the child's l
7 other harm to the child. (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child. if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 5 $2-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court finds that failure to recornize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child understands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is removed from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return thereit, and is observed for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return thereit, work or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no priven afor such the child is residing within this stat		(6) other equitable factors arising from the disruption of the
 (b) The interest that a child may have in forming a relationship with a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child. If there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582- 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child under- stands to be their parent; including: (a) The harm if the child is menved from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child is physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child is point in the child is legarated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any oparent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and direction		_
 9 a genetic parent shall not be given conclusive weight in adjudicating competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582- 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. $ 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child, shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological birth or for a substantial period: (b) The harm if the child is resolved from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return ther- s 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing with competing claims of parentage, particularly when there is no preexisting substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. S 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child. State as a person the child underestands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child underestands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or avert as any other states to be their parent; and (d) The harm if the child is residing within this state, [either] any the parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return t substantial relationship between the genetic parent and the child. (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parent are of a person who claims to between the definition of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582- 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. S 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psycholocicals birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stats to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pare-conception arceement to parent at any other point in the child is residing within this state, [either] any stands to be their parent; states to the their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pare-conception arceement to parent at any other point in the child's presiding within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return there sol, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, char
 (c) In a proceeding to adjudicate parentage of a person who claims to be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who as fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child underastands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is removed from a person the child underastands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Suddivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent work the supreme court; and on the return therastor, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such the super 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows:
be a de facto parent of the child, if there is more than one other person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-16 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a Derson as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 5 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recornize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other parent as a follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return thereef, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardianation, child to reduce a stable provisions and restrictions, and with such provisions for a different of such a supreme court; and on the return thereef, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardianation of the coust of such child to fiether] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on t
14 person who is a parent or has a claim to parentage of the child and the court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582-103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 21 § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. 22 The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not shall court shall consider all relevant factors, including: 23 (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child understands to be their parent; and 24 (b) The harm if the child is removed from a person the child understands to be their parent; and 25 (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. 35 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as a mended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therese of, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian-ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter
<pre>15 court determines that the requirements of this section and section 582- 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 1 $ 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period: (b) The harm if the child is removed from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. 7 § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as a mended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: 8 (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 7 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 8 right to the custo</pre>
16 103 of this article are satisfied, the court shall award parentage to the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 21 § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. 21 The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: 28 (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child under- stands to be their parent; and 30 (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. 31 § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: 32 (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie a right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court< the person claiming to be a de facto parent, provided the adjudication of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther-dis, child brought before such court; and on the return ther-dis, child, so and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facied fight to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the cou of a person as a parent under this section shall not disestablish the parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. 5 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [eithers] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therafter eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardianaship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facied at the court with the court was the case of the child to child to court was any time thereafter sight to the custody of t parentage of any other parent, nor limit any other parent's rights under the laws of this state. § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child under- stands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- 4 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie fight to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court the laws of this state. S32-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child understands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court; and on the return therestor, ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child to [either] any parent, but the court § 582-106. Judgment of parentage for a child with multiple parents. The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
The court may adjudicate a child to have more than two parents if the court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child understands to be their parent; and (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therester ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie court finds that failure to recognize more than two parents would be detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therest, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter right to the custody of the child to [either] any parent, but the court detrimental to the child. A finding of detriment to the child shall not require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adju- dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- thip, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court require a finding of unfitness of any parent or person seeking an adjudication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therese of, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian-ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court dication of parentage. In determining detriment to the child, the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therse of, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardianship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court shall consider all relevant factors, including: (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return thereed, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian-ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
 (a) The harm if the child is removed from a stable placement with a person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child understands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return theresting, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian-thip, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie person who has fulfilled the child's physical needs and psychological needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. S 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- sed, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- the time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the court of the child in [either] any parent, but the court needs for care and affection and has assumed the role since the child's birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court birth or for a substantial period; (b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under- stands to be their parent; and (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile
33 stands to be their parent; and 34 (c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including 35 a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other 36 point in the child's life. 37 § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as 38 amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as 39 follows: 40 (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any 41 parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to 42 have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- 43 eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- 44 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such 45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	31
(c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- the ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	32	(b) The harm if the child is separated from a person the child under-a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other point in the child's life. § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facies right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	33	stands to be their parent; and
36 point in the child's life. 37 § 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: 40 (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return therewise, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardianes time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile right to the court of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	34	(c) The intention of all parents to raise a child together, including
§ 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- thip, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	35	a pre-conception agreement to parent or agreement to parent at any other amended by chapter 457 of the laws of 1988, is amended to read as follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facies right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	36	point in the child's life.
follows: (a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court	37	§ 4. Subdivision (a) of section 70 of the domestic relations law, as
(a) Where a minor child is residing within this state, [either] any parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- the ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
41 parent may apply to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus to 42 have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- 43 eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- 44 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such 45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
42 have such minor child brought before such court; and on the return ther- 43 eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- 44 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such 45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
43 eof, the court, on due consideration, may award the natural guardian- 44 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such 45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
44 ship, charge and custody of such child to [either] any parent for such 45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facile 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court		-
45 time, under such regulations and restrictions, and with such provisions 46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
46 and directions, as the case may require, and may at any time thereafter 47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
47 vacate or modify such order. In all cases there shall be no prima facie 48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
48 right to the custody of the child in [either] any parent, but the court
49 Shall determine solely what is for the best interest of the child, and
50 what will best promote its welfare and happiness, and make award accord-		what will best promote its welfare and happiness, and make award accord-
52 court may award custody to more than two parents.		· · ·
		§ 5. Subparagraphs 2 and 4 of paragraph (a), clause (vi) of subpara-graph 5 of paragraph (c), subparagraphs 6 and 7 of paragraph (f) and paragraphs (g), (i) and (j) of subdivision 1 and paragraph a and the opening paragraph and subparagraph 1 of paragraph b of subdivision 3 of б

section 413 of the family court act, subparagraphs 2 and 4 of paragraph 1 (a) and subparagraphs 6 and 7 of paragraph (f) of subdivision 1 as 2 amended by chapter 567 of the laws of 1989, clause (vi) of subparagraph 3 4 5 of paragraph (c) of subdivision 1 as added by chapter 215 of the laws 5 of 2009, paragraphs (g) and (i) of subdivision 1 as amended by chapter б 436 of the laws of 2011, paragraph (j) of subdivision 1 as amended by 7 chapter 59 of the laws of 1993, and paragraph a and the opening para-8 graph and subparagraph 1 of paragraph b of subdivision 3 as amended by 9 chapter 398 of the laws of 1997, are amended to read as follows:

10 (2) "Child support" shall mean a sum to be paid pursuant to court 11 order or decree by [either or both parents] one or more parent or pursu-12 ant to a valid agreement between the parties for care, maintenance and 13 education of any unemancipated child under the age of twenty-one years. 14 (4) "Combined parental income" shall mean the sum of the income of 15 [both] all parents.

(vi) Upon proof by [either] any party that cash medical support pursuant to clause (ii), (iii), (iv) or (v) of this subparagraph would be unjust or inappropriate pursuant to paragraph (f) of this subdivision [one of this section], the court shall:

20 (6) The educational needs of [either] any parent;

21 (7) A determination that the gross income of one or more parent is 22 substantially less than [the other] one or more of another parent's 23 gross income;

24 (g) Where the court finds that the non-custodial parent's pro rata 25 share of the basic child support obligation is unjust or inappropriate, 26 the court shall order the non-custodial parent to pay such amount of 27 child support as the court finds just and appropriate, and the court shall set forth, in a written order, the factors it considered; the 28 29 amount of each party's pro rata share of the basic child support obli-30 gation; and the reasons that the court did not order the basic child 31 support obligation. Such written order may not be waived by [either] any 32 party or counsel; provided, however, and notwithstanding any other 33 provision of law, including but not limited to section four hundred 34 fifteen of this part, the court shall not find that the non-custodial parent's pro rata share of such obligation is unjust or inappropriate on 35 36 the basis that such share exceeds the portion of a public assistance 37 grant which is attributable to a child or children. Where the non-custo-38 dial parent's income is less than or equal to the poverty income guide-39 lines amount for a single person as reported by the federal department of health and human services, unpaid child support arrears in excess of 40 five hundred dollars shall not accrue. 41

42 Where [either or both] any of the parties are unrepresented, the (i) 43 court shall not enter an order or judgment other than a temporary order 44 pursuant to section two hundred thirty-seven of the domestic relations law, that includes a provision for child support unless the unrepre-45 46 sented party or parties have received a copy of the child support stand-47 ards chart promulgated by the commissioner of the office of temporary 48 and disability assistance pursuant to subdivision two of section one hundred eleven-i of the social services law. Where [either] any party is 49 in receipt of child support enforcement services through the local 50 social services district, the local social services district child 51 support enforcement unit shall advise such party of the amount derived 52 53 from application of the child support percentage and that such amount 54 serves as a starting point for the determination of the child support 55 award, and shall provide such party with a copy of the child support 56 standards chart.

(j) In addition to financial disclosure required in section four 1 hundred twenty-four-a of this article, the court may require that the 2 income and/or expenses of [either] any party be verified with documenta-3 4 tion including, but not limited to, past and present income tax returns, 5 employer statements, pay stubs, corporate, business, or partnership 6 books and records, corporate and business tax returns, and receipts for 7 expenses or such other means of verification as the court determines 8 appropriate. Nothing herein shall affect any party's right to pursue 9 discovery pursuant to this chapter, the civil practice law and rules, or 10 the family court act.

a. One-time adjustment of child support orders issued prior to Septem-11 12 ber fifteenth, nineteen hundred eighty-nine. Any party to a child support order issued prior to September fifteenth, nineteen hundred 13 14 eighty-nine on the behalf of a child in receipt of public assistance or 15 child support services pursuant to section one hundred eleven-g of the 16 social services law may request that the support collection unit under-17 take one review of the order for adjustment purposes pursuant to section 18 one hundred eleven-h of the social services law. A hearing on the adjustment of such order shall be granted upon the objection of [either] 19 20 any party pursuant to the provisions of this section. An order shall be 21 adjusted if as of the date of the support collection unit's review of 22 the correct amount of child support as calculated pursuant to the 23 provisions of this section would deviate by at least ten percent from the child support ordered in the last permanent support order of the 24 25 court. Additionally, a new support order shall be issued upon a showing that the current order of support does not provide for the health care 26 27 needs of the child through insurance or otherwise. Eligibility of the 28 child for medical assistance shall not relieve any obligation the parties otherwise have to provide for the health care needs of the 29 30 child. The support collection unit's review of a child support order 31 shall be made on notice to all parties to the current support order and 32 shall be subject to the provisions of section four hundred twenty-four-a 33 of this article. Nothing herein shall be deemed in any way to limit, 34 restrict, expand or impair the rights of any party to file for a modifi-35 cation of a child support order as is otherwise provided by law.

Upon receipt of an adjustment finding and where appropriate a proposed order in conformity with such finding filed by [either] any party or by the support collection unit, a party shall have thirty-five days from the date of mailing of the adjustment finding and proposed adjusted order, if any, to submit to the court identified thereon specific written objections to such finding and proposed order.

42 (1) If specific written objections are submitted by [either] any party 43 or by the support collection unit, a hearing shall be scheduled by the 44 court on notice to the parties and the support collection unit, who 45 shall have the right to be heard by the court and to offer evidence in 46 support of or in opposition to adjustment of the support order.

47 § 6. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall 48 have become a law. Effective immediately, the addition, amendment and/or 49 repeal of any rule or regulation necessary for the implementation of 50 this act on its effective date are authorized to be made and completed 51 on or before such effective date.