AN ACT to amend the education law, in relation to permitting students of SUNY, CUNY, or state-funded institutions of higher education to observe certain holidays without facing academic repercussions

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The education law is amended by adding a new section 224-b to read as follows:

§ 224-b. No academic repercussions for holiday observance. 1. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(a) "State university" shall mean the state university of New York established pursuant to article eight of this chapter.

(b) "City university" shall mean the city university of New York established pursuant to article one hundred twenty-five of this chapter.

(c) "Publicly-funded institution of higher education" shall mean any institution of higher education, recognized and approved by the regents of the university of the state of New York, which provides a course of study leading to the granting of a post-secondary degree or diploma, which receives public funds from the state of New York.

(d) "Academic repercussions" shall include, but not be limited to, penalties for absence or grade reductions on any academic assignment, presentation, quiz, exam, or other study or work requirements.

2. Students enrolled at any state university, city university, or publicly-funded institution of higher education shall be permitted to observe any of the following holidays without being subjected to academic repercussions, so long as such student notifies, in writing, his or her instructor of such student's intention to observe such holiday at least three business days in advance: The third Monday of January, known as Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. day; the third Monday in February, known

18 3. It shall be the responsibility of the faculty and of the adminis-
19 trative officials of each state university, city university, or public-20 ly-funded institution of higher education to make available to each 21 student who is absent from school pursuant to subdivision two of this 22 section, an equivalent opportunity to make up any examination, study or 23 work requirements which he or she may have missed because of such 24 absence. No fees of any kind shall be charged by the institution for 25 making available to such student such equivalent opportunity.

26 4. In effectuating the provisions of this section, it shall be the 27 duty of the faculty and of the administrative officials of each state 28 university, city university, or publicly-funded institution of higher 29 education to exercise the fullest measure of good faith. No adverse or 30 prejudicial effects shall result to any student because of his or her 31 availing himself or herself of the provisions of this section.

32 5. Any student, who is aggrieved by the alleged failure of any faculty 33 or administrative officials to comply in good faith with the provisions 34 of this section, shall be entitled to maintain an action or proceeding 35 in the supreme court of the county in which such state university, city 36 university, or publicly-funded institution of higher education is 37 located for the enforcement of his or her rights under this section.

38 6. It shall be the responsibility of the administrative officials of 39 each state university, city university, or publicly-funded institution 40 of higher education to give written notice to students of their rights 41 under this section, informing them that each student who is absent from 42 school, because of his or her observance of any holiday listed in subdi-43 vision two of this section, must be given an equivalent opportunity to 44 make up any examination, study or work requirements which he or she may 45 have missed because of such absence. No fees of any kind shall be 46 charged by the institution for making available to such student such 47 equivalent opportunity.

48 § 2. This act shall take effect on the sixtieth day after it shall 49 have become a law.
