Taking leave on a reduced leave or intermittent schedule shall not result in a reduction in the amount of total leave a victim of domestic or sexual violence is entitled to in the twelve month period.

§ 696-c. Notice of intention to take leave. An employee shall provide an employer with reasonable notice of the employee's intention to take leave pursuant to section six hundred ninety-six-a of this article unless providing such notice is not practicable. § 696-e. Confidentiality. Any information provided to the employer, including but not limited to information under section six hundred ninety-six-d of this article, describing the domestic or sexual violence in the employee's life and the request to take a leave to address the effects of domestic or sexual violence, shall be kept confidential by the employer. Disclosure shall only be allowed if the employee, in writing, consents to or requests disclosure.

§ 696-f. Restoration to position. 1. 2. The taking of leave under section six hundred ninety-six-a of this article shall not result in the loss of any employment benefits accrued prior to the date on which the leave began.

3. (a) Except as provided in subdivision two of this section, any employee who takes leave under section six hundred ninety-six-a of this article shall be entitled to continued coverage under any health care benefits plan provided by such person's employer for the duration of the leave.

(b) The employer may recover the premium that the employer paid for maintaining coverage under a health benefits plan for the employee entitled to leave under section six hundred ninety-six-a of this article, if:

(i) the employee fails to return to such person's employment once the leave has expired; and

(ii) the employee fails to return to work for a reason other than:

(A) the continuation, recurrence, or onset of domestic or sexual violence that entitles the employee to leave pursuant to this section; or

(B) other circumstances beyond the control of the employee.

2. Interference with proceedings or inquiries. It shall be unlawful for any person to discharge or in any other manner discriminate (as described in paragraph (b) of subdivision one of this section) against any individual because such individual:

(a) has filed any charge, or has instituted or caused to be instituted any proceeding, under or related to this article;

(b) has given, or is about to give, any information in connection with any inquiry or proceeding relating to any right provided under this article; or

(c) has testified, or is about to testify, in any inquiry or proceeding relating to any right provided under this article.

§ 696-h. Civil action. 1. By employee. Any person denied leave or benefits due under this article or aggrieved by an action made unlawful by this article shall have a cause of action in any court of appropriate jurisdiction for damages, including any wages, salary, employment benefits or other compensation denied or lost to such individual by reasons of the violation and/or any actual monetary losses sustained by the individual as a direct result of the violation, as well as interest on such amount calculated at the prevailing rate, and such equitable relief as may be appropriate, including employment, reinstatement, and promotion, together with costs and such reasonable attorneys' fees as may be allowed by the court, and if the violation was willful, an additional amount as liquidated damages equal to twenty-five percent of the total of such damages found to be due.

2. By commissioner. On behalf of any employee denied leave or benefits due under this article or aggrieved by an action made unlawful by this article, the industrial commissioner may bring a legal action necessary to collect damages due to the violation, and the employer shall be required to pay such damages and if such violation was willful, an additional amount as liquidated damages equal to twenty-five percent of the total of such damages found to be due.

3. Limitation of time. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an action to recover upon liability imposed by this article must be commenced within two years.

§ 696-i. Savings clause. If any provision of this article or the application thereof to any person, employer, occupation or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the article and the application of such provision to other persons, employees, occupations, or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

§ 2. This act shall take effect on the ninetieth day after it shall have become a law.
