AN ACT to amend the real property actions and proceedings law, in relation to access to adjoining property to make improvements or repairs

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section 881 of the real property actions and proceedings law, as added by chapter 220 of the laws of 1968, is amended to read as follows:

§ 881. Access to adjoining property to make improvements or repairs.

1. As used in this section the term "document" shall include but not be limited to copies of any plans, specifications, surveys, engineering reports or evidence of insurance for the work to be performed on adjoining property.

2. When an owner or lessee seeks to make improvements or repairs to real property so situated that such improvements or repairs cannot be made by the owner or lessee without entering the premises of an adjoining owner or his lessee, and permission so to enter has been refused, the owner or lessee seeking to make such improvements or repairs may commence a special proceeding for a license so to enter pursuant to article four of the civil practice law and rules. The petition and affidavits, if any, shall state the facts making such entry necessary and the date or dates on which entry is sought. Any adjoining owner or lessee named as a party in such proceeding may, at the request of the owner or lessee seeking such entry, provide such owner or lessee with such information as shall allow the owner or lessee to identify the lessees of the adjoining owner and join them in the proceeding. Such license shall be granted by the court in an appropriate case and upon such other terms as justice requires. The licensee shall be liable to the adjoining owner or his lessee for actual damages occurring as a result of the entry.

EXPLANATION--Matter in italics (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [-] is old law to be omitted.
