be fixed by the court and: (A) in the case of a felony conviction, shall not exceed the greater of: (i) eight years from the date of such sentencing, except where the sentence is or includes a sentence of probation on a conviction for a felony sexual assault, as provided in 5 subparagraph (iii) of paragraph (a) of subdivision three of section 65.00 of the penal law, in which case, ten years from the date of such 7 sentencing, or (ii) eight years from the date of the expiration of the maximum term of an indeterminate or the term of a determinate sentence 9 of imprisonment actually imposed; or (B) in the case of a conviction for 10 a class A misdemeanor, shall not exceed the greater of: (i) five years 11 from the date of such sentencing, except where the sentence is or 12 includes a sentence of probation on a conviction for a misdemeanor sexu-13 al assault, as provided in subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (b) of subdi-14 vision three of section 65.00 of the penal law, in which case, six years 15 from the date of such sentencing, or (ii) five years from the date of 16 the expiration of the maximum term of a definite or intermittent term 17 actually imposed; or (C) in the case of a conviction for any other 18 offense, shall not exceed the greater of: (i) two years from the date of 19 sentencing, or (ii) two years from the date of the expiration of the maximum term of a definite or intermittent term actually imposed. For 20 21 purposes of determining the duration of an order of protection entered pursuant to this subdivision, a conviction shall be deemed to include a conviction that has been replaced by a youthful offender adjudication. 23 Any order of protection entered pursuant to this section shall be 24 25 extended for up to two years past the date that such order expires if 26 the court finds an extreme case for such extension and states on the 27 record the reasons for the extension. For purposes of this paragraph, 28 "extreme case" shall mean a threat of harm to the protected party continues; defendant has been found guilty of repeated criminal contempt 29 30 due to a violation of an order of protection; defendant has continued to 31 express intent to commit harm to, intimidate or threaten the protected 32 party. In addition to any other conditions, such an order may require 33 the defendant: 34

§ 3. The opening paragraph of subdivision 5 of section 530.12 of the criminal procedure law, as amended by section 2 of chapter 9 of the laws of 2011, is amended to read as follows:

37 Upon sentencing on a conviction for any crime or violation between 38 spouses, between a parent and child, or between members of the same 39 family or household as defined in subdivision one of section 530.11 of this article, the court may in addition to any other disposition, 40 including a conditional discharge or youthful offender adjudication, 41 42 enter an order of protection. Where a temporary order of protection was 43 the court shall state on the record the reasons for issuing or 44 not issuing an order of protection. The duration of such an order shall 45 be fixed by the court and, in the case of a felony conviction, shall not 46 exceed the greater of: (i) five years from the date of such sentencing, 47 or (ii) three years from the date of the expiration of the maximum term 48 of an indeterminate sentence of imprisonment actually imposed; or in the 49 case of a conviction for a class A misdemeanor, shall not exceed three years from the date of such sentencing; or in the case of a conviction 50 for any other offense, shall not exceed one year from the date of 51 52 sentencing. For purposes of determining the duration of an order of 53 protection entered pursuant to this subdivision, a conviction shall be deemed to include a conviction that has been replaced by a youthful 55 offender adjudication. Any order of protection entered pursuant to this 56 section shall be extended for up to two years past the date that such A. 5151

order expires if the court finds an extreme case for such extension and states on the record the reasons for the extension. For purposes of this paragraph, "extreme case" shall mean a threat of harm to the protected party continues; defendant has been found quilty of repeated criminal contempt due to a violation of an order of protection; defendant has continued to express intent to commit harm to, intimidate or threaten the protected party. In addition to any other conditions, such an order may require the defendant:

§ 4. The opening paragraph of subdivision 4 of section 530.13 of the criminal procedure law, as amended by chapter 240 of the laws of 2015, is amended to read as follows:

12 Upon sentencing on a conviction for any offense, where the court has not issued an order of protection pursuant to section 530.12 of this 13 14 article, the court may, in addition to any other disposition, including 15 a conditional discharge or youthful offender adjudication, enter an 16 order of protection. Where a temporary order of protection was issued, 17 the court shall state on the record the reasons for issuing or not issuing an order of protection. The duration of such an order shall be fixed 18 by the court and; (A) in the case of a felony conviction, shall not 19 20 exceed the greater of: (i) eight years from the date of such sentencing, 21 except where the sentence is or includes a sentence of probation on a conviction for a felony sexual assault, as provided in subparagraph 23 (iii) of paragraph (a) of subdivision three of section 65.00 of the penal law, in which case, ten years from the date of such sentencing, or 24 25 (ii) eight years from the date of the expiration of the maximum term of 26 an indeterminate or the term of a determinate sentence of imprisonment 27 actually imposed; or (B) in the case of a conviction for a class A 28 misdemeanor, shall not exceed the greater of: (i) five years from the 29 date of such sentencing, except where the sentence is or includes a 30 sentence of probation on a conviction for a misdemeanor sexual assault, 31 as provided in subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three 32 section 65.00 of the penal law, in which case, six years from the 33 date of such sentencing or (ii) five years from the date of the expira-34 tion of the maximum term of a definite or intermittent term actually 35 imposed; or (C) in the case of a conviction for any other offense, shall 36 not exceed the greater of: (i) two years from the date of sentencing, or 37 (ii) two years from the date of the expiration of the maximum term of a definite or intermittent term actually imposed. For purposes of deter-39 mining the duration of an order of protection entered pursuant to this 40 subdivision, a conviction shall be deemed to include a conviction that has been replaced by a youthful offender adjudication. Any order of 41 42 protection entered pursuant to this section shall be extended for up to 43 two years past the date that such order expires if the court finds an extreme case for such extension and states on the record the reasons for the extension. For purposes of this paragraph, "extreme case" shall mean 45 46 a threat of harm to the protected party continues; defendant has been 47 found quilty of repeated criminal contempt due to a violation of an 48 order of protection; defendant has continued to express intent to commit 49 harm to, intimidate or threaten the protected party. In addition to any 50 other conditions such an order may require that the defendant: 51

Upon sentencing on a conviction for any offense, where the court has not issued an order of protection pursuant to section 530.12 of this article, the court may, in addition to any other disposition, including
