BACKGROUND: Mr. Grossman retired as a Tier 1 TRS member on September 28, 2010. He currently receives an annual retirement allowance of $103,495 per year under the 50% Joint and Survivor with Pop-Up payment option.

If the proposed legislation is passed, Mr. Grossman's retirement allowance would be recalculated to include in his final average salary a lump sum payment he received for unused vacation time, which is a benefit that is generally not afforded to TRS retirees. The additional cost, less any required member contributions paid by Mr. Grossman, to fund the increased retirement allowance associated with the proposed legislation would be paid by the City of New York.

Tier 1 TRS members are generally permitted to take an actuarial reduction of their retirement allowance to account for deficits in member contributions. For purposes of this fiscal note, it is assumed that Mr. Grossman would not pay any owed member contributions resulting from the recalculation. Based on this assumption and application of other Tier 1 benefit calculation provisions, it is estimated that Mr. Grossman's annual retirement allowance would increase to $114,514. This annual increase would apply prospectively as well as retroactively, less any payments previously made, to Mr. Grossman's September 28, 2010 date of retirement.

ASSUMPTIONS AND METHODS: The estimates presented herein have been calculated based on the actuarial assumptions and methods to be used for the Preliminary Fiscal Year 2025 employer contributions of the impacted retirement systems.

RISK AND UNCERTAINTY: The costs presented in this Fiscal Note depend highly on the actuarial assumptions, methods, and models used, demographics of the impacted population and other factors such as investment, contribution, and other risks. If actual experience deviates from actuarial assumptions, the actual costs could differ from those presented herein. Quantifying these risks is beyond the scope of this Fiscal Note.

This Fiscal Note is intended to measure pension-related impacts and does not include other potential costs (e.g., administrative and Other Postemployment Benefits).
