AN ACT to amend the executive law, the real property actions and proceedings law and the real property law, in relation to establishing the New York state office of civil representation to provide a right to counsel in eviction proceedings

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Legislative findings. Eviction proceedings have a profoundly disparate impact on low-income individuals and given this disparate impact, it is imperative that these individuals be provided legal representation in legal proceedings that put their housing at risk.

There is a fundamental human right to adequate housing accommodations. Safe, secure, and accessible housing is essential to achieving equal access to all other fundamental needs. Without housing, individuals and families too often cannot preserve family integrity, gain employment or other income, or enjoy access to healthcare, proper nutrition, and education.

Eviction proceedings and displacement as a result of evictions have a disparate impact on low-income individuals and particularly on low-income people of color, who are disproportionately the respondents in eviction proceedings.

Representation of people who are at risk of losing their homes in legal proceedings preserves access to housing and ensures compliance with laws protecting people's rights in such proceedings. Abrupt, unwar-ranted, or unlawful evictions disrupt lives and livelihoods, force

1 people to find housing in a market with a severe shortage of affordable 2 housing and often significantly increases the risk of homelessness. The 3 short- and long-term effects of housing instability are devastating to 4 individuals and families and can affect physical and mental health, 5 employment and education. Providing a right to counsel to individuals 6 who are most at risk of housing instability not only protects individuals and families from these devastating effects, it saves public funds 8 that would otherwise be spent on shelters and services to people experiencing homelessness as well as the wide range of detrimental short- and long-term collateral consequences of housing instability.

§ 2. The executive law is amended by adding a new article 29 to read as follows:
