AN ACT to amend the family court act, in relation to the basis for removal of children and the creation of "Melinda's Law"

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1 Section 1. This act shall be known and may be cited as "Melinda's 2 Law".

3 § 2. Legislative intent. The legislature hereby finds and declares 4 that in cases of domestic violence, the abuse sometimes moves from the 5 spouse to the children. Once the abusive spouse begins to over-discipline the children, the abusive spouse will often use threats or the б 7 removal of the children by child protective services as a means to 8 compel subjugation from the non-abusive spouse. In addition, the abusive 9 spouse prevents the reporting of such incidents to child protective 10 services by making the non-abusive spouse an accomplice in this abuse. Under this threat, children are subjected to escalating abuse that could 11 12 have been prevented if the non-abusive spouse had a safe harbor to 13 report such abuse at the early stages without fear of losing their chil-14 dren. By this act the legislature intends to take such tool away from 15 the abusive spouse by providing the non-abusive spouse a way to report such incidents without fear of having their children removed from their 16 custody. The sequence of events above are an apt description of "Melin-17 da". Melinda is a woman suffering from domestic violence. She had been 18 abused by her husband over a twenty-year period. The abuse had seen 19 20 verbal, psychological, and physical. She took the abuse in the belief 21 that her children needed a father. Eventually the abuse was transferred 22 to the children. It started with excessive spanking, locking a young 23 teenager in the basement, and pushing a five-year-old to the ground. 24 Melinda confronted her husband and put herself between her husband and 25 her children resulting in a black-eye to Melinda. She told her husband that she would not let him hit the children and would call the police 1 and have him arrested. Her husband responded that if she called the 2 police, her children would be taken away from her by child protective 3 services. The husband than graduated to hitting his teenage son with a 4 5 wooden rod that left welts. The abuse in this cycle of domestic violence 6 is escalated over time when the abusive spouse believes that the non-a-7 busive spouse or caretaker is afraid to report such abuse, under the fear of losing their children. By creating a safe harbor under Melinda's 8 9 Law we have the opportunity to prevent the escalation of abuse to both 10 the spouse victim and the children who are the victims of domestic 11 violence. 12 § 3. Section 1012 of the family court act is amended by adding two new 13 subdivisions (o) and (p) to read as follows: 14 (o) "Domestic violence" means: 15 (i) any conduct which would constitute an offense in the penal law, and created a substantial risk of physical or emotional harm, regardless 16 17 of whether such injury occurred; or (ii) any other abuse, including but not limited to verbal, emotional 18 19 or psychological abuse, including slapping, that creates a substantial 20 risk of physical or emotional harm to such person or such person's 21 child, regardless of whether such harm occurred. 22 (p) "Victim spouse or domestic partner subjected to domestic violence" 23 means the respondent spouse or domestic partner who is the non-abusive spouse or domestic partner, and is determined to be subjected to domes-24 25 tic violence as defined by subdivision (o) of this section. § 4. Section 1017 of the family court act is amended by adding a 26 new 27 subdivision 1-a to read as follows: 28 1-a. (a) In determining whether there is a suitable person related to 29 the child with whom such child may appropriately reside under subdivi-30 sion one of this section and if both parents are respondents the court 31 shall first inquire as to the following: 32 (i) whether either respondent has been subjected to domestic violence 33 by the other respondent and if so; (ii) whether such victim spouse or domestic partner subjected to 34 domestic violence reported the incident precipitating a removal order or 35 36 hearing under this article and if so; 37 (iii) whether such victim spouse or domestic partner subjected to domestic violence has been neglectful or abusive in their behavior 38 39 towards the child or children at issue. (b) If the court shall determine under paragraph (a) of this subdivi-40 sion that a respondent is a victim spouse or domestic partner subjected 41 42 to domestic violence and reported the incident precipitating the order 43 or hearing under this article then the court shall deem such victim 44 spouse or domestic partner subjected to domestic violence a non-respon-45 dent for purposes of the removal order or hearing; provided that, such 46 victim spouse or domestic partner subjected to domestic violence is not 47 neglectful or abusive in their behavior towards the child or children at 48 issue. If the court so finds, the court shall award custody to such non-respondent parent provided that such custody is in the best inter-49 50 ests of the child or children. 51 (c) If a determination is made that both parents remain as respond-52 ents, the court may then determine whether there is a suitable person 53 related to the child with whom such child may appropriately reside under 54 subdivision one of this section. 55 (d) The court may conduct in camera interviews, bar the appearance of

56 the respondent abuser or take any other steps as it deems necessary
