February 2, 2023

Introduced by M. of A. REILLY -- read once and referred to the Committee on Codes

AN ACT to amend the criminal procedure law, in relation to permitting judicial discretion based on dangerousness when issuing a securing order, extending the time period for discovery, permits the immediate issuance of a bench warrant for failure to appear for certain principals, and places restrictions on when appearance tickets may be issued

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The opening paragraph of subdivision 1 and subdivision 3 of section 510.10 of the criminal procedure law, subdivision 1 as amended by section 1 of subpart C of part UU of chapter 56 of the laws of 2022, and subdivision 3 as added by section 2 of part JJJ of chapter 59 of the laws of 2019, are amended to read as follows:

6 When a principal, whose future court attendance at a criminal action 7 or proceeding is or may be required, comes under the control of a court, 8 such court shall, in accordance with this title, by a securing order release the principal on the principal's own recognizance, release the 9 10 principal under non-monetary conditions, or, where authorized, fix bail 11 or commit the principal to the custody of the sheriff. In all such 12 cases, except where another type of securing order is shown to be required by law, the court shall release the principal pending trial on 14 the principal's own recognizance, unless it is demonstrated and the court makes an individualized determination that the principal poses a 15 risk of flight to avoid prosecution or that the principal poses a danger to a person or the community. If such a finding is made, the court must 17 18 select the least restrictive alternative and condition or conditions 19 that will reasonably assure the principal's return to court. The court 20 shall explain its choice of release, release with conditions, bail or 21 remand on the record [ex] and in writing. In making its determination, the court must consider and take into account available information about the principal, including:

- 3. In cases other than as described in subdivision four of this section the court shall release the principal pending trial on the principal's own recognizance, unless the court finds on the record [ex] and in writing that:
- (a) release on the principal's own recognizance will not reasonably assure the principal's return to court. In such instances, the court shall release the principal under non-monetary conditions, selecting the least restrictive alternative and conditions that will reasonably assure the principal's return to court. The court shall explain its choice of alternative and conditions on the record [ex] and in writing; or
- (b) the principal poses a danger to a person or the community. In such instances, the court may in its discretion release the principal pending trial on the principal's own recognizance or under non-monetary conditions or commit the principal to the custody of the sheriff, selecting the least restrictive alternative and conditions that will reasonably assure the safety of such person or the community. A securing order committing the principal to the custody of the sheriff shall be limited to a duration of ninety days where the principal stands charged with a misdemeanor or one hundred eighty days where the principal stands charged with a felony. Where a principal is committed to the custody of the sheriff, the prosecutor may make a motion to extend the duration of such custody beyond the limits imposed pursuant to this paragraph, where such extension is appropriate in the interests of justice. The court shall explain its choice of alternative and conditions on the record and in writing.

In such instances, the court shall release the principal under non-monetary conditions, selecting the least restrictive alternative and conditions that will reasonably assure the principal's return to court. The court shall explain its choice of alternative and conditions on the record [ex] and in writing. A securing order committing the principal to the custody of the sheriff shall be limited to a duration of ninety days where the principal stands charged with a misdemeanor or one hundred eighty days where the principal stands charged with a felony.
