(a) A claimant who is dissatisfied with an initial determination of his or her claim for benefits or any other party, including any employer whose employer account percentage might be affected by such determination may, within thirty days after the mailing or personal delivery of notice of such determination, request a hearing. Where such notice of determination has not been issued by the department, or received by the claimant, within thirty days of claimant's filing a claim for benefits and furnishing the required information, as provided for by subdivision one of section five hundred ninety-seven of this article, the claimant may request a hearing under the presumption that their claim has been denied. The referee may extend the time fixed for requesting a hearing, upon evidence that the physical condition or mental incapacity of the claimant prevented the claimant from filing an appeal within thirty days
