section to make other decisions on behalf of the person who is intellectually disabled. The absence of this determination in the case of guardians appointed prior to the effective date of this subdivision shall not preclude such guardians from making health care decisions.

§ 2. Subdivisions 1 and 2 of section 1750-a of the surrogate's court procedure act, as amended by chapter 198 of the laws of 2016, are amended to read as follows:

1. When it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that a person is a person who is developmentally disabled, the court is authorized to appoint a guardian of the person or of the property or of both if such appointment of a guardian or guardians is in the best interest of the person who is developmentally disabled. Such appointments shall be made pursuant to the provisions of this article, provided however that the provisions of section seventeen hundred fifty of this article shall not apply to the appointment of a guardian or guardians of a person who is developmentally disabled. For the purposes of this article, a person who is developmentally disabled is a person who has been certified by one licensed physician and one licensed psychologist, one licensed physician and one certified school psychologist, or by two licensed physicians at least one of whom is familiar with or has professional knowledge in the care and treatment of persons with developmental disabilities, having qualifications to make such certification, as having an impaired ability to understand and appreciate the nature and consequences of decisions which result in such person being incapable of managing [~~himself or herself and/or his or her~~] themselves and/or their affairs by reason of developmental disability and that such condition is permanent in nature or likely to continue indefinitely, and whose disability:

(a) is attributable to cerebral palsy, epilepsy, neurological impairment, autism or traumatic head injury;

(b) is attributable to any other condition of a person found to be closely related to intellectual disability because such condition results in similar impairment of general intellectual functioning or adaptive behavior to that of persons with intellectual disabilities; or

(c) is attributable to dyslexia resulting from a disability described in [~~subdivision one~~] paragraph (a) or [~~two~~] (b) of this [~~section~~] subdivision or from intellectual disability; and

(d) originates before such person attains age twenty-two, provided, however, that no such age of origination shall apply for the purposes of this article to a person with traumatic head injury.

2. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, for the purposes of subdivision two of section seventeen hundred fifty and section seventeen hundred fifty-b of this article, [~~"a~~] any reference made to a person who is intellectually disabled [~~and his or her guardian"~~] and/or such person's guardian shall [~~also~~] mean or include a person [~~and his or her~~] and/or such person's guardian appointed pursuant to this section; provided that such person has been certified, by the physicians [~~and/or psychologists~~] or by the physician and the psychologist or the certified school psychologist, as specified in subdivision one of this section, as (i) having an intellectual disability, or (ii) having a developmental disability, as defined in section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law, which (A) includes intellectual disability, or (B) results in a similar impairment of general intellectual functioning or adaptive behavior so that such person is incapable of managing [~~himself or herself, and/or his or her~~] themself and/or their affairs by reason of such developmental disability.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.
