

STATE OF NEW YORK

880--A

2025-2026 Regular Sessions

IN SENATE

(Prefiled)

January 8, 2025

Introduced by Sens. JACKSON, CLEARE -- read twice and ordered printed, and when printed to be committed to the Committee on Housing, Construction and Community Development -- committee discharged, bill amended, ordered reprinted as amended and recommitted to said committee

AN ACT to amend the private housing finance law, in relation to enacting the housing development fund company self-determination, preservation and affordability act

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

1 Section 1. Short title. This act shall be known and may be cited as 2 the "housing development fund company self-determination, preservation 3 and affordability act".
4 § 2. Legislative findings and declarations. 1. In 1966, the Legisla-
5 ture enacted Article 11 of the private housing finance law. Article 11 6 authorized the development of rental and cooperative housing that is 7 subject to certain income restrictions. The type of income-restricted 8 housing is referred to as housing development fund companies (HDFCs).
9 2. Beginning in the early 1980s, New York city adopted the HDFC form 10 of housing cooperative as a means to divest itself of -- and revitalize 11 -- its tax-foreclosed multi-family housing stock. At the time the city 12 was experiencing large-scale abandonment of its private low and middle-13 income multi-family housing stock. In response to this housing crisis, 14 the city determined to turn over the ownership and management of many 15 city-owned tax-foreclosed multifamily buildings to the existing tenants 16 in the form of HDFC co-ops.
17 3. Previously, the city sold at auction nearly all of its tax-forec-18 closed multi-family property to private investors - and that traditional 19 approach to disposing of tax foreclosed property had led to an acceler-
20 ating cycle of housing disinvestment and abandonment. The city's HDFC

EXPLANATION--Matter in italics (underscored) is new; matter in brackets [-] is old law to be omitted.

LBD02813-02-5

1 initiative was in the city's own interests: it enabled the city to avoid 2 the counterproductive private auction process and to return the build-3 ings to the tax rolls.

4 4. Over the past four decades the city's HDFC initiative proved to be 5 one of New York's most enduring housing success stories. Tens of thou-6 sands of resident-shareholders of HDFCs played an important role in the 7 stabilization and preservation of New York city's multi-family housing 8 stock in the period following the city's fiscal crisis of the 1970s and 9 1980s. The city's large-scale creation of HDFC co-ops was a major policy 10 innovation and was an important part of the city's response to the hous-11 ing crisis of that era. Today, there are over 1,100 HDFC co-ops in New 12 York city.

13 5. All government and community stakeholders benefitted from the 14 large-scale creation of HDFCs. The city benefitted by reducing its enor-15 mous portfolio of tax-foreclosed apartment buildings at a time when the 16 buildings were a substantial burden to the city and when there was 17 little in the way of a private market for these properties. The resi-18 dents benefitted by the preservation and upgrading of their own build-19 ings and by becoming homeowners for the first time. And the surrounding 20 communities benefitted by the stabilization of the neighborhood, the 21 upgrading of housing and by the transformation of a rental community 22 into a homeownership community.

23 6. When the city imposed regulatory controls on the city-sponsored 24 HDFCs, the regulatory controls placed on HDFCs were time-limited.
25 Consequently, the HDFCs that were created in the 1980s and 1990s have 26 regulatory controls that already have expired or will soon expire. For 27 this class of HDFCs, there is a great deal of uncertainty as to their 28 legal status and their financial future.

29 7. This legislation clarifies the legal status of HDFCs with expired 30 regulatory controls in a way that protects and promotes their autonomy
31 and self-governance while strengthening the inducements for these HDFCs 32 to voluntarily agree to continue to operate as affordable housing.

33 8. An important feature of city-sponsored HDFCs is the city's use of 34 its authority to enter into a "regulatory agreement" with the HDFC.
35 Under section 576 of the private housing finance law, either the state 36 or the municipal "supervisory agency" (i.e., HPD) may enter into a regu-37 latory agreement with an HDFC if the agency advances public funds to the 38 HDFC. Under such section of the private housing finance law, every HDFC 39 regulatory agreement must provide that:

40 (1) Households must meet income eligibility guidelines, which are 41 defined by statute as six times the annual rent plus six percent of the 42 shareholder's "original investment" in the HDFC. See paragraph b of 43 subdivision 1 of section 576 of the private housing finance law.

44 (2) Profits must be used only for capital improvements or to reduce 45 rent/maintenance. Dividends cannot be paid to owners. See paragraphs c 46 and d of subdivision 1 of section 576 of the private housing finance 47 law.

48 (3) The property may not be sold or transferred without HPD approval 49 for so long as the regulatory agreement remains in effect and/or unless 50 and until any funds or mortgages owed to the city are paid in full. See 51 paragraph e of subdivision 1 of section 576 of the private housing 52 finance law.

53 (4) The HDFC may not be dissolved without HPD approval for so long as 54 the regulatory agreement remains in effect and/or unless and until any 55 funds or mortgages owed to the city are paid in full. See paragraph e of 56 subdivision 1 of section 576 of the private housing finance law.

1 9. Thus, under section 576 of the private housing finance law certain 2 key restrictions remains in effect only for so long as a regulatory 3 agreement remains in effect. Put differently, the city's authority to 4 impose section 576 restrictions (including restrictions on dissolution 5 of HDFCs and on the sale and disposition of HDFC property) is limited to 6 only those HDFCs that are subject to a regulatory agreement and does not 7 extend to HDFCs in which a regulatory agreement or mortgage is no longer 8 in effect.

9 10. The city applied its section 576 authority to HDFCs in two ways:
10 i.e. (1) some of the terms of the section 576 "regulatory agreement" 11 were incorporated into various HDFC incorporation documents and in the 12 deed conveying title to the property; and (2) a regulatory agreement was 13 incorporated into mortgage documents when the city made loans to HDFCs
14 to finance capital improvements. In each case the city imposed resale 15 restrictions that had a fixed term. At the inception of the HDFC program 16 in the early 1980s, city-sponsored resale restrictions imposed by the 17 sale documents expired in ten years. By the late 1980s, city-sponsored 18 resale restrictions imposed by the sale documents ran for 25 years.
19 Furthermore, resale restrictions that were made a part of city-sponsored 20 rehabilitation loans to HDFCs ran for the life of the loan -- i.e., 21 usually 15 to 25 years.

22 11. Thus, the city used section 576 of the private housing finance law 23 as a means to impose additional terms and conditions (including resale 24 restrictions) on the operation of the HDFC for a fixed term following 25 the establishment of the housing cooperative or during the life of a 26 city-sponsored loan to the HDFC. For the vast majority of HDFCs, these 27 restrictions have expired.

28 12. There are presently over 1,100 HDFCs in New York city containing 29 approximately 25,000 apartments. Of these HDFCs, approximately 20 30 percent are subject to regulatory agreements. A substantial number of 31 non-regulated HDFCs date from the 1980s and 1990s. These older HDFCs are 32 no longer subject to city resale restrictions that expired after either 33 ten years or 25 years following the incorporation of the HDFCs.

34 13. For as long as a particular city-imposed resale restrictions 35 remained in effect, an HDFC is subject to a detailed scheme of regu-36 lations imposed by the city pursuant to section 576 of the private hous-
37 ing finance law. In general, HPD resale restrictions govern such impor-
38 tant issues of HDFC governance as income limitations for purchasers, 39 succession rights, sublet rights, flip taxes, HPD consent as a precondi-
40 tion to the sale of an HDFC building and HPD consent to the dissolution 41 of an HDFC. Upon the expiration of the city-imposed restrictions, the 42 HDFC is no longer subject to these externally imposed regulations.

43 14. An HDFC with expired regulatory controls nevertheless remains 44 subject to Article 11 of the private housing finance law as well as to 45 various governing documents, such as its certificate of incorporation, 46 deed restrictions, proprietary lease and by-laws. Most importantly, an 47 HDFC is required to provide housing for "persons of low income," as 48 defined in paragraph a of subdivision 3 of section 573 of the private 49 housing finance law. However, once an HDFC regulatory agreement or other 50 HPD-imposed income restriction has expired, nothing in the private hous-51 ing finance law expressly precludes these HDFC co-ops from converting to 52 a non-HDFC co-op by reincorporating as a conventional co-op (and thereby 53 opting out of the remaining statutory restrictions imposed by the 54 private housing finance law). That circumstance raised the possibility 55 that some HDFCs may opt-out of the HDFC statute and become market-rate

1 housing - which would represent a loss to the city's inventory of 2 affordable housing stock.

3 15. A city-established HDFC is eligible to receive a partial real 4 estate tax exemption granted by the city pursuant to section 577 of the 5 private housing finance law. Pursuant to this authority, the city in 6 1989 enacted a partial tax exemption for most city-sponsored HDFCs. The 7 tax exemption is generally referred to as the "Division of Alternative 8 Management Programs" tax exemption, or "DAMP tax exemption".

9 16. The tax exemption runs for forty years and will expire in 2029. A 10 condition of the DAMP tax exemption is that the HDFC remain an HDFC for 11 the duration of the tax exemption. Hence, an HDFC that opt-outs of the 12 HDFC statute and become market-rate housing would be required to forfeit 13 the DAMP tax exemption.

14 17. The city in 2017 proposed local legislation that would revoke the 15 DAMP tax exemption from any HDFC that declined to sign a new regulatory 16 agreement with HPD. The proposed new regulatory agreement would contain 17 many provisions that would largely deprive HDFCs of autonomy and self-18 determination, including the imposition of external fiscal monitors paid 19 for by HDFC income, new restriction on apartment sales and subletting, 20 and limitations on the assets and other real property owned by HDFC 21 shareholders. By 2019 the city abandoned the proposed legislation in the 22 face of widespread opposition by HDFC community groups and other stake-23 holders.

24 18. Also in 2017, the city proposed new state legislation that would 25 re-regulate HDFCs and that would change the law to ensure that all HDFCs
26 remain subject to affordability controls in perpetuity. See S2543 (2017) 27 (proposed amendment to the private housing finance law). As stated in 28 the city's memorandum in support of S2543:

29 "(T)here is a great need for an amendment to clarify that the corpo-30 rate purpose of an HDFC -- to provide affordable housing to persons and 31 families of low income -- is perpetual in duration. Absent the checks 32 and balances provided by the (proposed amendment to private housing 33 finance law, which would subject HDFCs for the time to the requirements 34 of the not-for-profit corporation law), there may be a great loss of 35 affordable housing."

36 19. Thus, the city expressly acknowledged that, under existing law, 37 HDFCs with expired regulatory agreements have the option of remaining as 38 an HDFC or, in the alternative, the option of converting to another form 39 of housing cooperative without affordability controls. S2453 was 40 intended to eliminate the second option. Ultimately, S2453 was not 41 enacted and the statutory law governing HDFCs remains unchanged.

42 20. Contrary to the city's 2017 statement, the New York Attorney 43 General issued an opinion in 2015 to the effect that HDFC cooperatives 44 could never opt-out of the PHFL and that they were subject to the 45 perpetual regulation of the HPD Commissioner. See New York Attorney 46 General, "Guidance on Housing Development Fund Corporations Seeking to 47 Transfer or Sell Property for, or Otherwise Convert Property to Market-48 Rate Use" (hereafter "Guidance"). HPD joined in the Guidance. The Attor-49 ney General reached this conclusion based on their determination that 50 the statutory term "amendment" - as used in subdivision 5 of section 573 51 of the private housing finance law - encompassed and implied the commis-52 sioner's additional authority to consent to the dissolution of an HDFC.
53 The Attorney General's Guidance is incorrect as a matter of law, in that 54 it misconstrues the plain text of the HDFC statute as well as ignores 55 the distinct treatment of the concepts of "amendment" and "dissolution"

1 in other New York corporate law settings, including the business corpo-2 ration law.

3 21. Consistent with the city's 2017 statement, HDFCs always have had 4 the right under the private housing finance law -- and continue to have 5 the right under the private housing finance law -- to dissolve and rein-6 corporate under the business corporation law or other applicable law, 7 provided that the housing development fund company: (1) was formerly 8 subject to a regulatory agreement but such regulatory agreement has 9 expired and/or was formerly subject to contractual restrictions imple-10 menting the requirements of section 576 of the private housing finance 11 law but that such contractual restrictions have expired; and (2) had 12 formerly received a tax exemption under section 577 of the private hous-13 ing finance law but such tax exemption either has expired or is other-14 wise no longer being received.

15 22. This legislation squarely addresses the legal uncertainty that 16 threatens the future of many city-sponsored HDFCs. More particularly, 17 this legislation has three overriding goals: (1) to protect and promote 18 the self-determination of HDFC co-ops; (2) to provide strong incentives 19 for HDFC co-ops with expired controls to agree to remain as affordable 20 housing; and (3) to ensure that the HDFC co-ops that agree to remain as 21 affordable housing are in sound condition and are economically self-suf-22 ficient. These three overriding objectives are complementary.

23 23. The current HDFC tax exemption for most city-sponsored HDFCs
24 co-ops is scheduled to expire in 2029. Already, many financial insti-25 tutions have indicated a reluctance to lend to HDFCs in light of the 26 financial uncertainty associated with the scheduled expiration of the 27 HDFC tax exemption in five years. This legislation will eliminate this 28 uncertainty by providing a permanent tax incentive for HDFCs.

29 24. Currently, HDFC co-ops receive a partial tax exemption - known as 30 "the DAMP tax benefit". The DAMP tax benefit takes the form of a cap on 31 assessed valuation per dwelling unit - currently $12,542. As previously 32 noted, this legislation removes the sunseting of the DAMP tax exemption 33 and makes the tax exemption permanent. Furthermore, the legislation 34 allows HDFC co-ops to receive the greater of the DAMP tax exemption or 35 twice the tax abatement that most market-rate co-ops presently currently 36 receive under section 467-a of the real property tax law (but which HDFC 37 co-ops presently are ineligible to receive). This increased tax benefit 38 to HDFCs is a recognition that income-restricted HDFC co-ops are enti-
39 tled to greater benefits than market-rate co-ops. This increased tax 40 benefit is a vital means to promote and protect housing affordability 41 and to provide financial stability to HDFCs. The benefit also is 42 intended as an inducement for current HDFC co-ops (with expired regula-43 tory controls) to make a long-term commitment to remain as income-res-44 tricted HDFCs - rather than exercising their right to reincorporate as 45 another form of housing cooperative that is not subject to income 46 restrictions.

47 25. The fact that market-rate co-ops are eligible to receive a tax 48 abatement under section 467-a of the real property tax law, but that 49 HDFC co-ops presently are ineligible to receive any such tax abatement, 50 is an inequity that is corrected by this legislation. As stated above, 51 the real property tax law section 467-a tax abatement is received by 52 most housing cooperatives in New York City other than HDFCs. This tax 53 abatement contains no income restrictions or similar eligibility 54 requirements. A luxury co-op on Park Avenue is eligible for a conven-55 tional co-op tax abatement. Currently, a conventional co-op that is 56 assessed at $50,000 per unit or less is eligible for a tax abatement of 1 28.1 percent. A conventional co-op that is assessed above $60,000 per 2 unit - without any upper limit to assessed value - is subject to a 17.5 3 percent tax abatement. However, under current law, HDFCs that receive 4 the DAMP tax exemption are not eligible to receive either the 28.1 5 percent real property tax law tax abatement or the 19 percent real prop-6 erty tax law tax abatement. See paragraph (b) of subdivision 2 of 7 section 467-a of the real property tax law which provides that housing 8 cooperatives that receive most other real estate tax incentives are not 9 eligible to receive the conventional co-op tax abatement. This places 10 many income-restricted HDFCs co-ops in the anomalous position of receiv-

11 ing less of a tax benefit than a conventional co-op without any income 12 restrictions whatsoever.

13 26. Although HDFCs do receive the DAMP tax exemption in lieu of the 14 conventional co-op tax abatement, the application of the DAMP tax 15 exemption to many HDFC co-ops is not nearly as valuable as would be the 16 application of the real property tax law section 467-a tax abatement.
17 This is so because the real property tax law section 467-a tax abatement 18 provides a dollar-for-dollar reduction in real estate tax liability. By 19 contrast, the DAMP tax exemption merely provides a cap on assessed valu-20 ation, and thereby a cap on the resulting real estate tax liability. If 21 an HDFC's assessment is already below the DAMP "cap," then the HDFC
22 receives no tax benefit at all. Hence, many HDFCs located in low-income 23 neighborhoods receive no tax benefit whatsoever. This is manifestly 24 unfair.

25 27. This legislation remedies this anomaly by providing that HDFC 26 co-ops are entitled to either the benefits of a conventional co-op tax 27 abatement and the DAMP tax exemption. As a matter of fairness and equi-
28 ty, an HDFC income-restricted co-op should receive at least the tax 29 benefit that a market-rate co-op receives. This legislation goes further 30 and provides that HDFC co-ops are entitled to the greater of twice the 31 conventional co-op tax abatement or the DAMP tax exemption. As previous-32 ly stated, this increased benefit is a recognition that HDFC co-ops are 33 entitled to greater benefits than market-rate co-ops as a vital means to 34 promote and protect housing affordability in New York City and as a 35 means to provide financial stability to HDFCs.

36 28. This legislation also establishes a mechanism to ensure that HDFCs 37 that receive the tax benefit comply with the new affordability require-38 ments. As a condition of the continuing receipt of the tax benefit, each 39 HDFC is required to file an annual certification stating that it has 40 complied with the affordability requirements. HPD is authorized to 41 review and audit the sales records of the HDFC in order to ensure 42 compliance with these requirements. Furthermore, HPD has the right to 43 suspend or revoke the tax exemption and tax abatement if HPD determines 44 that HDFC has willfully not complied with the affordability require-45 ments.

46 29. For the vast majority of HDFC co-ops, the proposed enhanced real 47 estate tax benefit -- together with the availability of below-market 48 interest financing available through HPD -- would be sufficient to 49 ensure both affordability and fiscal stability. However, for perhaps 10
50 to 20 percent of HDFCs -- which are in fair to poor financial condition 51 - something more is needed. In recognition of this special need of 52 economically distressed HDFCs, the legislation extends the authority of 53 the city of New York to offer special tax relief to HDFC co-ops that are 54 in severe fiscal distress and that are in danger of tax foreclosure by 55 reason of unpaid real estate taxes. Such tax relief is conditioned on 56 the HDFC co-op agreeing to enter into a special regulatory agreement in

1 which the city exercises appropriate oversight and monitoring of the 2 HDFC. Current legislation was enacted in 2002 and authorized tax
3 forgiveness only for HDFCs that "(as of) January 1, 2002 had outstanding 4 municipal real estate taxes relating to any period prior to January 1, 5 2001." This baseline year for tax forgiveness (i.e., tax arrears as of 6 2001) has never been updated to a more current tax year. The legislation 7 updates the baseline year so that the city has the flexibility to offer 8 tax forgiveness (in appropriate cases and subject to strict controls set 9 forth in current law) for HDFC co-ops that are at risk of tax foreclo-10 sure. In this way an economically distressed HDFC co-op is saved from 11 tax foreclosure, and may thereby provide sustainable and affordable 12 housing for years to come. This is critically important - not just for 13 the HDFC shareholders themselves - but also for neighborhood stability.

14 30. In summary, this legislation provides a much needed permanent tax 15 incentive for HDFCs -- as well as targeted tax relief for economically 16 distressed HDFCs. The permanent tax benefit will eliminate the current 17 uncertainty surrounding the expiration of the DAMP tax exemption in 2029 18 - and will thereby ease the availability of mortgage financing for 19 HDFCs. Furthermore, the permanent tax benefit will serve as a strong 20 incentive for HDFCs with expired regulatory controls to affirmatively
21 choose to remain as affordable HDFC housing subject to income 22 restrictions -- consistent with democratic principles of self-gover-23 nance. This approach is a matter of basic fairness and justice; is 24 consistent with the promises given to HDFCs over the past thirty years; 25 and is in full accord with how all other government-sponsored private 26 housing under the private housing finance law is treated (such as Mitc-27 hell-Lama housing and Article V redevelopment companies). Most impor-28 tantly, this approach will ensure the long-term economic viability of 29 affordable HDFC co-ops.

30 § 3. Section 576 of the private housing finance law is amended by 31 adding a new subdivision 4 to read as follows:

32 4. A housing development fund company that is no longer subject either 33 to a regulatory agreement or to deed restrictions entered into with the 34 commissioner or supervisory agency shall continue to be subject to the 35 oversight of the commissioner or supervisory agency, subject to the 36 limitation set forth in paragraph (d) of subdivision one of section five 37 hundred seventy-seven of this article, provided that the housing devel-38 opment fund company continues to elect to receive a tax exemption and/or 39 tax abatement pursuant to section five hundred seventy-seven of this 40 article. If such housing development fund company elects not to receive 41 a tax exemption and/or tax abatement pursuant to such section, then it 42 shall cease to be subject to the regulation and oversight of the commis-43 sioner or supervisory agency.

44 § 4. Subdivision 1 of section 577 of the private housing finance law, 45 as amended by chapter 658 of the laws of 1967, paragraph (a) as amended 46 by chapter 428 of the laws of 1980, paragraph (c) as added by chapter 47 494 of the laws of 1995, and paragraph (d) as added by chapter 73 of the 48 laws of 2009, is amended to read as follows:

49 1. (a) The local legislative body of any municipality in which a 50 project of a housing development fund company is or is to be located may 51 exempt and abate the real property in such project from local and munic-52 ipal taxes including school taxes, other than assessments for local 53 improvements, to the extent of all or part of the value of the property 54 included in the completed project. The tax exemption and tax abatement 55 shall operate and continue for [~~such period as may be provided by such~~ 56 ~~local legislative body, but in no event for a period of more than forty~~

1 ~~years, commencing]~~ so long as a housing development fund company remains 2 in compliance with the requirements of this section, and shall commence 3 in each instance from the date on which the benefits of such exemption 4 first became available and effective. The tax exemption and tax abate-5 ment shall be applied to:

6 (i) newly created housing development fund companies that are subject 7 to regulatory agreement and/or contractual or deed restrictions imposed 8 by the commissioner or supervisory agency;

9 (ii) housing development fund companies that are presently subject to 10 a regulatory agreement and/or contractual or deed restrictions imposed 11 by the commissioner or supervisory agency; and 12 (iii) housing development fund companies that are not presently 13 subject to a regulatory agreement and are not presently subject to 14 contractual or deed restrictions imposed by the commissioner or supervi-15 sory agency but that agree to the conditions of the tax exemption and 16 tax abatement as hereinafter described in paragraph (b) of this subdivi-17 sion.

18 (b) In order for a housing development fund company described in 19 subparagraph (iii) of paragraph (a) of this subdivision to be eligible 20 for a tax exemption and tax abatement pursuant to this section, such 21 company shall be required, for so long as it receives such tax exemption 22 and tax abatement, to not approve a sale of an apartment unless the 23 purchaser of the apartment provides satisfactory proof of income and 24 unless the income of the purchaser is no greater than the income limita-
25 tion specified herein. Such income limitation shall be, at the election 26 of the housing development fund company, either (i) the apartment resale 27 requirement of paragraph b of subdivision one of section five hundred 28 seventy-six of this article; or (ii) a requirement that the income of a 29 purchaser of an apartment not exceed one hundred sixty-five percent of 30 the area median income, as determined from time to time by the United 31 States department of housing and urban development. As a condition of 32 the continuing receipt of such tax exemption and tax abatement, the 33 housing development fund company shall file an annual certification with 34 the commissioner or supervisory agency that the company has complied 35 with the requirements of this section. Such certification shall be 36 limited to a listing of apartments sold or transferred in the prior 37 twelve months and a statement that the income of the purchaser or trans-38 ferree of the apartment complies with the income requirement of this 39 paragraph, except that a transferee who is a member of the transferor's 40 family or household need not comply with such requirement.

41 (c) (i) The commissioner or supervisory agency may review and audit 42 the sales records of a housing development fund company in order to 43 ensure compliance with the requirements of this section. The commis-44 sioner or supervisory agency shall have the authority to suspend or revoke 45 the tax exemption and tax abatement applicable to any housing develop-46 ment fund company, in proportion to the percentage of dwelling units at 47 a housing development fund corporation not in compliance with this 48 section, if the commissioner determines that the company has willfully 49 violated the provisions of this section, so long as the housing develop-50 ment fund company is provided with prior written notification as to each 51 specific instance of noncompliance and to which dwelling unit such non-52 compliance is alleged.

53 (ii) A housing development fund company shall have the right to rebut 54 allegations of a willful violation of this section, and also to charge 55 and collect additional monies from any shareholder, including successors 56 and assigns, found by the commissioner or supervisory agency to have

1 willfully not complied with the requirements of this section so as to 2 recover expenses for all losses of tax exemptions and tax abatements and 3 so as to recover all expenses associated with responding to such allega-4 tions by the commissioner or supervisory agency.

5 (iii) Any annual certification submitted pursuant to this section that 6 has been accepted for filing and that has not been subject to a suspen-7 sion or revocation action by the commissioner or supervisory agency for 8 a period of five years shall be deemed correct and shall not be subject 9 to further audit or review by the commissioner or supervisory agency.

10 (d) The conditions set forth in paragraph (b) of this subdivision 11 shall be the sole and exclusive conditions governing the eligibility of 12 a housing development fund company described in subparagraph (iii) of 13 paragraph (a) of this subdivision for receipt of the tax exemption and 14 tax abatement authorized in paragraph (e) of this subdivision.

15 (e) For each eligible housing development fund company, the annual 16 amount of the tax exemption and tax abatement authorized pursuant to 17 this section shall be the greater of:

18 (i) twelve thousand five hundred forty-two dollars, equivalent to the 19 cap on assessed value per apartment of fifty thousand dollars in the two 20 thousand twenty-four tax year, and which shall increase by two and a 21 half percent per year in each subsequent tax year; or

22 (ii) the net reduction in real estate taxes resulting from two hundred 23 percent of the tax abatement for housing cooperatives authorized by 24 section four hundred sixty-seven-a of the real property tax law.

25 (f) Where a municipality acts on behalf of another taxing jurisdiction 26 in assessing real property for the purpose of taxation, or in levying 27 taxes therefor, the action of the local legislative body of such munici-28 pality in granting such tax exemption shall have the effect of exempting 29 the real property in such project from local and municipal taxes includ-30 ing school taxes, other than assessments for local improvements, levied 31 by or in behalf of both such taxing jurisdictions.

32 ~~(e)~~ (g) The local legislative body of any municipality may grant an 33 exemption under paragraph (a) of this subdivision to the real property 34 of a project of any entity to which it is authorized to make a loan 35 pursuant to section five hundred seventy-six-c of this article.

36 ~~(d)~~ (h) In a city having a population of one million or more, within 37 one hundred twenty days following receipt of a written submission from 38 the supervising agency requesting a tax exemption pursuant to paragraph 39 (a) of this subdivision for the real property containing the project of 40 a housing development fund company, the local legislative body shall 41 approve or disapprove by resolution the requested tax exemption. If the 42 local legislative body fails to take such action within one hundred 43 twenty days following receipt of such written submission from such 44 supervising agency, then the tax exemption requested by the supervising 45 agency shall be deemed approved pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivi-46 vision.

47 § 5. Paragraph (b) of subdivision 1 of section 577-b of the private 48 housing finance law, as amended by chapter 225 of the laws of 2004, is 49 amended to read as follows:

50 (b) on January first, two thousand ~~two~~ twenty-four, had outstanding
51 municipal real estate taxes relating to any period prior to January 52 first, two thousand ~~one~~ twenty-three.

53 § 6. This act shall take effect on the first of January next succeed-54 ing the date on which it shall have become a law.