1 commercial premises covered by this chapter except for good cause pursu-
2 ant to section 22-1504 of this chapter.

3 § 22-1504 Grounds for removal of tenants. 1. No landlord shall remove 4 a tenant from any small commercial premises, or attempt such removal or 5 exclusion from possession, notwithstanding that the tenant has no writ-6 ten lease or that the lease or other rental agreement has expired or 7 otherwise terminated, except upon order of a court of competent juris-8 isdiction entered in an appropriate judicial action or proceeding in which 9 the petitioner or plaintiff has established one of the following grounds 10 as good cause for removal or eviction:

11 (a) The tenant has failed to pay rent due and owing, provided that the 12 rent due and owing, or any part thereof, is not the result of:

13 (i) a rent increase which is unconscionable or imposed for the purpose
14 of circumventing the intent of this chapter. In determining whether all 15 or part of the rent due and owing is the result of an unconscionable
16 rent increase, it shall be a rebuttable presumption that the rent for a 17 small commercial premises is unconscionable if said rent has been 18 increased in any calendar year by a percentage exceeding one and one-19 half times the annual percentage change in the Consumer Price Index for 20 the city of New York, as established in the August preceding the calen-21 dar year in question; or

22 (ii) the withholding of rental payments by the tenant due to the 23 alleged violations of the lease or rental agreement by the landlord.

24 (b) The tenant is violating a substantial obligation of the tenancy, 25 other than the obligation to surrender possession, and has failed to 26 cure such violation within thirty days following written notice to cure 27 the violation by the landlord, provided however, that the obligation of 28 tenancy for which a violation is claimed was not imposed for the purpose 29 of circumventing the intent of this chapter.

30 (c) The tenant is committing or permitting a nuisance in the small 31 commercial premises, or is maliciously or by reason of negligence damag-32 ing the small commercial premises; or the tenant's conduct is such as to 33 interfere with the comfort of other tenants or occupants of the same or 34 adjacent buildings or structures.

35 (d) Occupancy of the small commercial premises by the tenant is in 36 violation of or causes a violation of law and the landlord is subject to 37 civil or criminal penalties therefor; provided however that an agency of 38 the state or municipality having jurisdiction has issued an order
39 requiring the tenant to vacate the small commercial premises. No tenant 40 shall be removed from possession of a small commercial premises on such 41 ground unless the court finds that the cure of the violation of law
42 requires the removal of the tenant and that the landlord did not through 43 neglect or deliberate action or failure to act create the condition
44 necessitating the vacate order. In instances where the landlord does not 45 undertake to cure conditions of the small commercial premises causing 46 such violation of the law, the tenant shall have the right to pay or 47 secure payment in a manner satisfactory to the court, to cure such 48 violation provided that any tenant expenditures shall be applied against 49 rent to which the landlord is entitled. In instances where removal of a 50 tenant is absolutely essential to the tenant's health and safety, the 51 removal of the tenant shall be without prejudice to any leasehold inter-52 est or other right of occupancy the tenant may have and the tenant shall 53 be entitled to resume possession at such time as the dangerous condi-
54 tions have been removed. Nothing herein shall abrogate or otherwise
55 limit the right of a tenant to bring an action for monetary damages

1 against the landlord to compel compliance by the landlord with all
2 applicable state or municipal laws or housing codes.

3 (e) The tenant conducts or permits any form of illegal activity on the 4 premises.

5 (f) The tenant has unreasonably refused the landlord access to the 6 small commercial premises for the purpose of making necessary repairs or 7 improvements required by law or for the purpose of showing the small 8 commercial premises to a prospective purchaser, mortgagee or other 9 person having a legitimate interest therein.

10 (g) The current tenancy was created by the subletting of the small 11 commercial premises, whereby the prime tenant did not notify the land-
12 lord of the subtenant's existence and did not obtain the written consent 13 of the landlord to sublet the small commercial premises. This ground is 14 void if the landlord and tenant had agreed in the lease to allow 15 subleasing rights without the consent of the landlord and all obli-
16 gations of the prime tenant on the issue were in compliance.

17 (h) It has been determined by an agency of the state or municipality 18 having jurisdiction or by a civil court of competent jurisdiction that 19 the tenant is a gross and persistent violator of New York city tax laws, 20 of any license obligations related to the use of the small commercial 21 premises or of any laws of the city of New York.

22 (i) Upon the termination of the current tenancy, the landlord intends, 23 in good faith, to demolish or substantially reconstruct the small 24 commercial premises or a substantial part thereof, or to carry out
25 substantial work or construction on the commercial premises or substan-26 tial part thereof which the landlord could not reasonably do without 27 obtaining possession of the small commercial premises. The landlord 28 shall notify the tenant of the landlord's decision to reoccupy the 29 commercial premises at least one year prior to the termination of the 30 tenant's current lease or rental agreement.

31 (j) Upon the termination of the current tenancy, the landlord intends 32 to occupy the small commercial premises in order to carry out the land-33 lord's own business, which cannot be the same type of business that the 34 current tenant is operating, unless the landlord compensates the tenant 35 at fair market value as determined by an arbitrator as restitution for 36 the loss of such tenant's business. The landlord shall notify the tenant 37 of the landlord's decision to reoccupy the premises at least one hundred 38 eighty days prior to the termination of the tenant's current lease.

39 2. A tenant required to surrender a small commercial premises by 40 virtue of the operation of paragraph (i) or (j) of subdivision one of 41 this section shall have a cause of action in any court of competent 42 jurisdiction for damages and declaratory and injunctive relief against a 43 landlord or purchaser of the premises who makes a fraudulent statement
44 regarding a proposed use of the premises. In any action or proceeding 45 brought pursuant to this provision a prevailing tenant shall be entitled 46 to recovery of actual damages, and reasonable attorneys' fees.

47 § 22-1505 Preservation of existing requirements of law. No action 48 shall be maintainable and no judgment of possession shall be entered for 49 small commercial premises pursuant to section 22-1504 of this chapter, 50 unless the landlord has complied with any and all applicable laws
51 governing such action or proceeding.

52 § 22-1506 Waiver of rights void. Any agreement by a tenant heretofore 53 or hereinafter entered into in a written lease or other rental agreement
54 waiving or modifying the tenant's rights as set forth in this chapter 55 shall be void as contrary to public policy.

1 § 3. Severability. If any provision of this act, or any application of 2 any provision of this act, is held to be invalid, that shall not affect 3 the validity and effectiveness of any other provision of this act, or of 4 any other application of any provision of this act, which can be given 5 effect without that provision or application; and to that end, the 6 provisions and applications of this act are severable.

7 § 4. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to actions 8 and proceedings commenced on or after such effective date.
