f. (i) Upon notification that an employer has been convicted of failing to pay the wages of an employee pursuant to subdivision one of section one hundred ninety-eight-a of this article, failing to pay minimum wage or overtime pay pursuant to section six hundred sixty-two of this article, or wage theft under section 155.05 of the penal law, the commissioner shall, after affording such employer notice and an opportunity to be heard pursuant to subparagraph (iv) of this paragraph, issue a written determination directing any appropriate agency to suspend one or more licenses that were issued to or filed by such employer, or such employer's successor business, for a period of time to be determined by the commissioner. The commissioner may prohibit such employer or successor business from being eligible to reapply for a license suspended pursuant to this paragraph, or any other license issued for the purpose of operating a business in the state, for a period up to but not exceeding two years.

(ii) In determining the length of a license suspension determination pursuant to subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, the commissioner shall consider the following factors:

(iv) Prior to issuing a written determination directing any appropriate agency to suspend one or more licenses that were issued to or filed by an employer pursuant to subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, the commissioner shall notify the employer, or such employer's successor business, in writing, of the commissioner's intent to issue such determination and the reasons therefor, and shall afford such employer or successor business an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel in reference thereto. Such notice shall notify the employer or successor business that a request for a hearing must be made within fifteen days after the issuance of such notification. If the employer requests a hearing within such fifteen-day period, such hearing shall be held at such time and place as the commissioner shall prescribe. If the employer does not request a hearing within such fifteen-day period, then such notification shall be deemed the final written determination by the commissioner. The commissioner shall have subpoena powers pursuant to the civil practice law and rules in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph.
