§ 212-c. Teacher accreditation review fees. The costs of accreditation reviews of teacher education programs shall be borne by the institution seeking accreditation by the board of regents. The commissioner shall establish and charge fees to cover the costs of the accreditation visits, any other related visits the commissioner may determine to be necessary, and related expenses. Fees collected shall be deposited to the credit of the teacher education accreditation account and disbursed pursuant to section ninety-nine-h of the state finance law. The commissioner shall be authorized to adopt any regulations needed to implement the provisions of this section.
